Paradise Theatre

At Paradise Theatre,
In the doorway
Of a dream.

In the world people searched for paradise. After the assassination of Lebanese President-elect Bashir Gemayel, Israeli troops occupied west Beirut. Within 48 hours anti-PLO Christian Phalangists slaughtered 800 men, women, and children. In Poland martial law was suspended, and the Solidarity union leader, Lech Walesa, was released. The Soviet leadership remained strong after the death of Leonid Brezhnev. The death of Princess Grace of Monaco shocked the world as her paradise story ended.

In the national news paradise evaded the citizens. The Tylenol scare made people afraid to buy goods. The death of John Belushi and Henry Fonda ended their contributions to the arts. Unemployment increased in the country, and Miami experienced two days of racial riots. In the midst of all the distress a box office smash, E.T., warmed the hearts of millions.

The space shuttle, Columbia, opened the commercial aspects of space by launching two satellites from space. The medical advancement to encourage the world occurred when Dr. William DeVries implanted a plastic heart in Seattle dentist, Barney Clark.

Virginia enjoyed the continued efforts of Ralph Sampson to keep UVA a threat in college basketball. The Tidewater area found the music groups of Pat Benatar, Rush, and J. Geils good listening as they made stops in the area.

A Green Run High School student was convicted of the murder of a teacher. Another tragedy startled the academic community with the death in an auto accident of a Lake Taylor High School football player. The area was saddened when Coleman's Nursery burned to the ground. The nursery was famous for the Christmas Wonderland display that was loved by many for fifteen years.

Doc Hutchinson leaves from the halls of school to a busy work schedule. Brad Huffman looks confident as he leaves school for a basketball game as Kim Kirby goes to her locker.

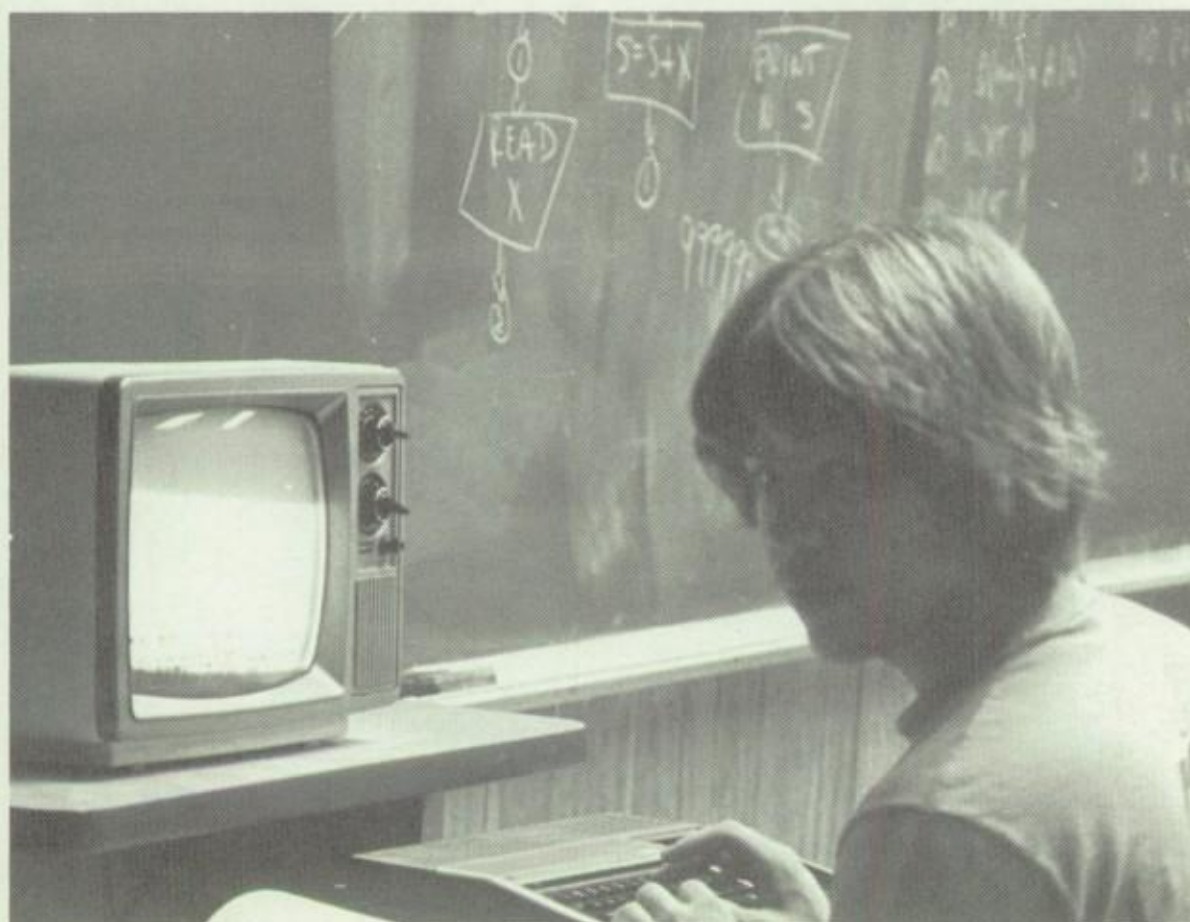

At Paradise Theatre,
Friends gathered round,
Reminiscing the times.

Ryan battled the water leaks in the library and halls. When road conditions became poor, students enjoyed an afternoon off. The new addition enabled the junior high classes to be administered effectively. In the high school new courses included computer science, AP English, calculus, and journalism. A spirit of enthusiasm occurred with the blending of students from other schools to make up the largest class to ever graduate from Ryan.

The children of the lower school are happily celebrating the holiday with their annual Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. Rowley, first grade teacher, watches her class including Kari Horn, Michele Minter, Susie Harrison, and Eric Hurt.

Eleventh grader Mitch Weatherford types in a program on one of Ryan's new computers. Study hall students and other students get to use the computers during free time. Instruction is given to all seniors in a one semester math course where they learn Basic.

People

Mr. Russ is the Director of the Ryan Upper and Lower Schools. He has provided different items such as computers and extra lockers. Mr. Russ supports the school with enthusiasm.

Mr. Mitchell is the guidance counselor of the Ryan Upper School. He tries to work out any problem a student might have. He is one person to whom the students can talk.

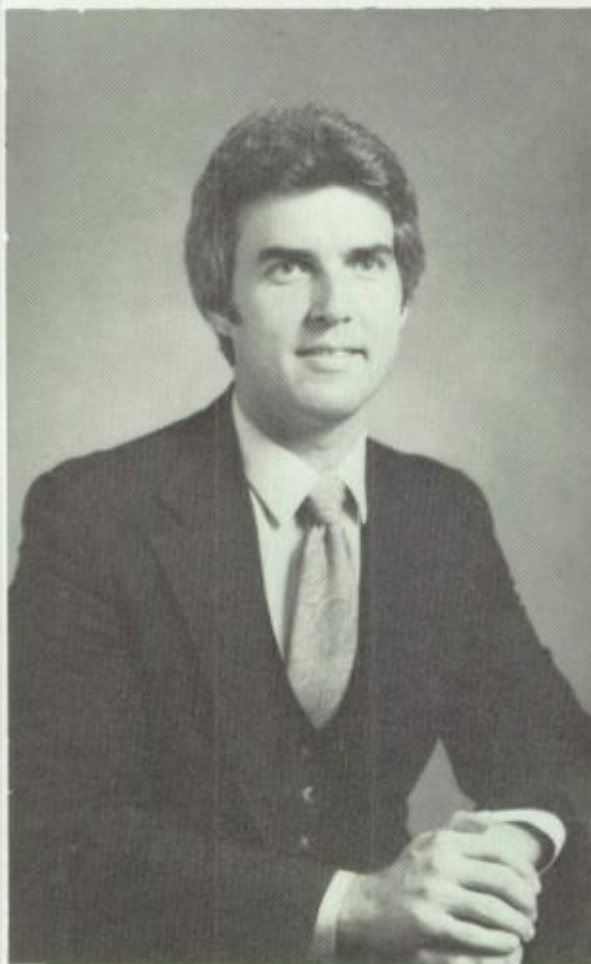

Mr. Ballas is the principal of the Ryan Upper School. He has been with the school for two years. He makes sure the students receive the best education possible.

The United States is often known as the "melting pot." A variety of people from all different countries came to the New World to start new lives. People with different religions and cultures all joined together in the New World and lived united as one country. Ryan's enrollment increased greatly when students from many other schools joined together. They worked together as one student body. The increased enrollment and variety of school backgrounds brought new ideas and personalities for promotion of school spirit.

Mrs. Shanker is the principal of the Ryan Lower School. She also acts as the guidance counselor for the students.

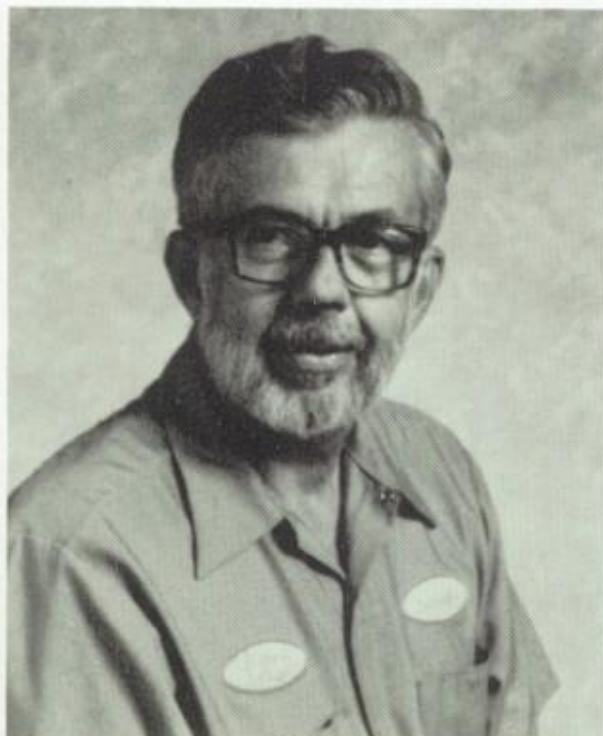

Mark Thomas, Becky Wald, Susan Spano, Cassie Fitzgerald, Morgan Chalk, Mrs. Hunter, Gillian Young, and Mrs. Dunsmore relax after lunch.

The famous Globe Theatre is noted for the many comedies and tragedies of Shakespeare and his acting group. Ryan is noted for its high standards of performance by its group. The actors at the Globe Theater wore masks to portray their characters. Students at times put on faces while at school to try to be the best students that they could be. The actors learned from their experiences and our students learned from the variety of activities at school. The varieties of activities for students brought lasting happiness.

Cheerleaders show

The opening pep rally used the combined efforts of varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders Lisa Riposa, Lori Wentworth, Amy Harrell, Melinda Bailey, Ellen Bass, Kim Sorey, Suzy Friedman, Ellen Waters, Dawn Eller, Elaine Little, Vickie Bastian, and Tracy Stillman; all do their best at standing alone above all others. Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Bryant watch carefully to make sure it is done right.

Cheryl Bryant and cheerleaders Kim Anderson, Vicki Bastian, Lisa Sanders, Suzy Friedman, Amy Harrel, Elaine Little, Ellen Waters, Brian Stanton, Lisa Riposa, Paulette Bryant, Christine Gilbert, Lori Wentworth, Kim Sorey, Ellen Bass, Melinda Bailey, and Dawn Eller give the Ryan Upper School students a pep talk on spirit.

During the opening pep rally junior varsity cheerleaders Lisa Sanders, Lisa Riposa, Dawn Eller, Brian Stanton, Christine Gilbert, Elaine Little, and Tracy Stillman work their way to the top.

Pep rallies are usually given by the cheerleaders once a month. It gives the cheerleaders a chance to introduce players of the different athletic teams and, also, to "show their stuff" in front of all the Upper School students. We had many different types of pep rallies.

At the Halloween pep rally the cheerleaders all dressed up in assorted costumes. They held the pep rally just like a Halloween party; they played games such as big wheel races.

The pep rallies for the year were very amusing, and they helped to contribute to the spirit of the school.

Winners come forth

The Homecoming game began with the JV Griffins playing the JV Warriors of Tidewater Academy with a spectacular win. The varsity Griffins concluded their game having a smooth win over the Warriors. The court representatives were announced between the JV and varsity games. It was a very exciting night.

Senior Homecoming court consisted of Mr. and Miss Senior Jim Fike and Marie Ambrose, returning Homecoming Queen and escort Amy Banks and John Floyd, Thomas Russ, this year's Homecoming Queen and escort Cyndi Hludzinski and Brad Huffman, and second runners-up Scott Bailey and Jackie Savopoulos.

Court representatives Cheyrl Spencer, Kelly Kerns, Lori Wentworth, Mark Pond, Jenny Nelms, Vickie Bastian, Brad Huffman, Jackie Savopoulos, Cyndi Hludzinski, John Floyd, and Amy Banks wait patiently for the announcement of their position on the court.

Varsity basketball players Dennis Bess and Kenny Hershberger try to steal the ball from their opponents in order to win the Homecoming game.

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders provided a spectacular stunt before the announcement of the Homecoming Court.

Homecoming dance provided food and fun

Students socialized with friends while listening to the music played by DJ Wynn Evers from K-94. The dance provided food and fun for those couples that attended. The couples danced then took a break to get cake and coke. For the many that attended a variety of songs was played. It was a night to remember.

The Homecoming dance provided much fun and refreshment for Shawna Woodall, Kenny Hershberger, Mrs. Gilbert, David McKenzie, Mr. Bryant and the many others that attended the exciting dance.

The many couples that attended the Homecoming dance enjoyed a slow dance to help relax them.

Junior high students Amy Stone, Eric Thornton, John Starling, Courtney Herter, Skip Hatfield, and Jennifer Gill dance at a junior high dance. At this dance no high school students attended; it was for junior high students only.

Dances were a chance for all of the students to get together with all of their friends and talk. They were also a chance for the students to get rid of excess energy. The dances were held usually every other week. The different clubs sponsored two dances and decorated each one.

Many different types of dances were held such as the punk dance held by the Senior Class, a Halloween dance sponsored by the junior high, and a Sadie Hawkins dance given by the Spanish Club.

Field trips for everyone

Mr. Ayres, history teacher, talks briefly to ninth grade students, prior to going to circuit court.

Juniors Michelle Dillow, Paul Thomas, Ernie Davis, Dennis Bess, Joe Henderson, Jason Lundquist, Rickey Fulk, Darlene Reynolds, Mark Pond, Mr. Ayres, Kenny Hershberger, Norman Ethridge, Dexter Swanner, Martin Pecil, Chris McCarver, and Valerie Davis begin to set up for their re-enactment of the battle of Yorktown.

The field trips of the year ranged from planetariums to Disney World and were very interesting. The ninth and tenth graders visited the Wells Theater.

The advanced placement history and the eleventh grade history classes visited the Yorktown Victory Center, where they participated in a mock battle of the Battle of Yorktown.

The journalism and advanced placement English classes went to a computer and word processing school and learned a quick lesson in the field.

Mr. Ballas, the principal of the Upper School, also took a group of students every Tuesday and Thursday to Northside Park, so they could swim, with the intention of creating a swim team.

Lower school students find

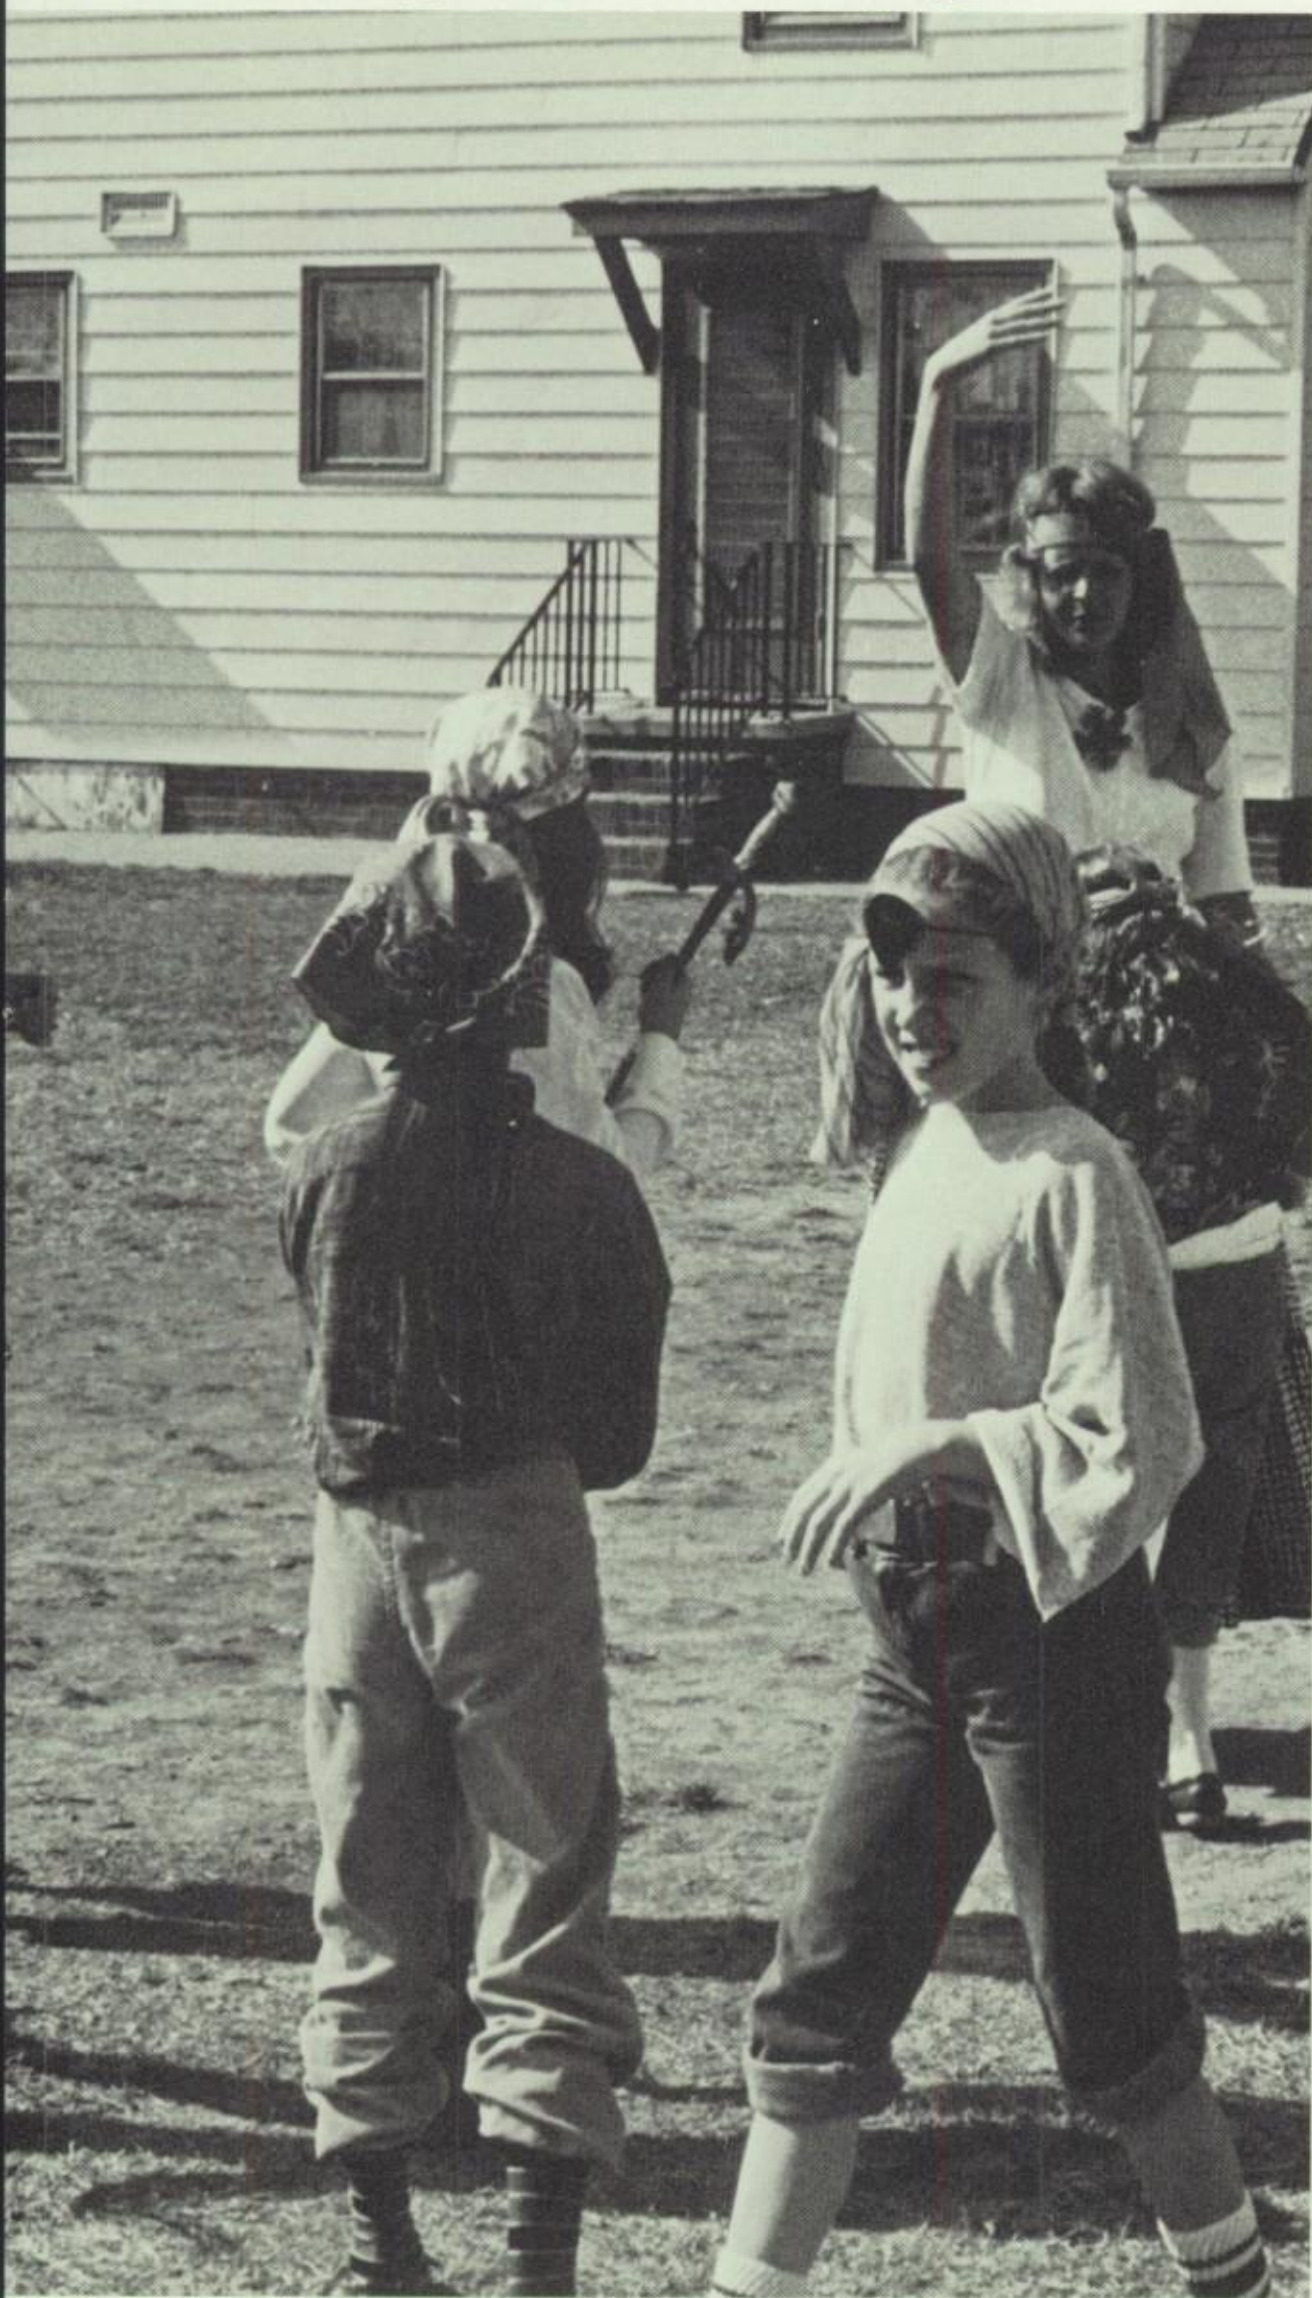

Shane Cooper, Cindy Doss, Anna Wilson, Kari Horn, Shane Bomar, and Kevin Carlson are the proud recipients of the Reading Awards given to those Lower School students excellent in reading.

Second graders Brian Norton, Shane Barger, and Anthony Stanley enjoy lunch while in their classroom.

First grade students Corrie Dial and Shannon Goldman sit patiently to say their blessing before eating their Thanksgiving Day feast.

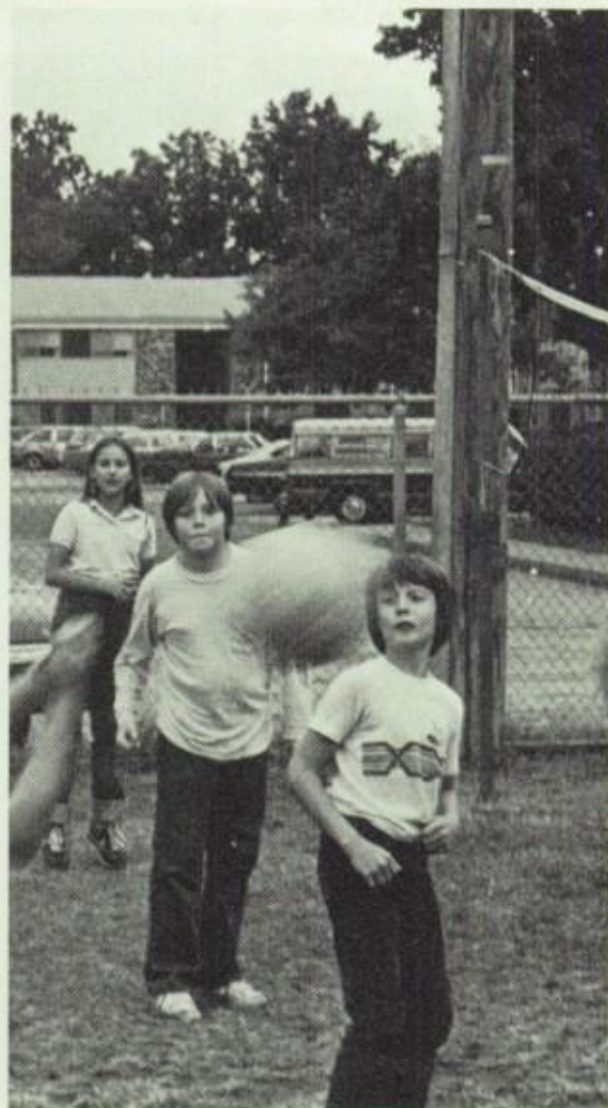

reading rewarding

Lower School students have the chance to participate in many activities. Halloween proves to be a favorite as the students dress up as different characters. Of the many exciting and amusing things the students may do, reading seems to be the most important and the most rewarding. Reading opens the doors of knowledge for people. Through reading one can learn many different things. One can never learn too much. The lower school teaches the young people to gather knowledge from reading.

Fifth graders enjoy dressing up as pirates to participate in a treasure hunt on Halloween.

Fifth graders Heather Evans, Brad Share, and Todd Bernard watch to see if their teammate can get the ball back across the net.

Eric Thornton, Denise Alvis, Kara Wilson, Terri Blair, Jay Armstrong, Tina Shannon, Rita Day, Jennifer Horne, David Bohnhoff, and Walker Meslang work in English class.

Mrs. Mallory enjoys teaching Introductory Spanish to eighth grader Sandi Brooke and seventh grader Susan Posey. Mrs. Mallory also teaches Spanish I through Spanish III.

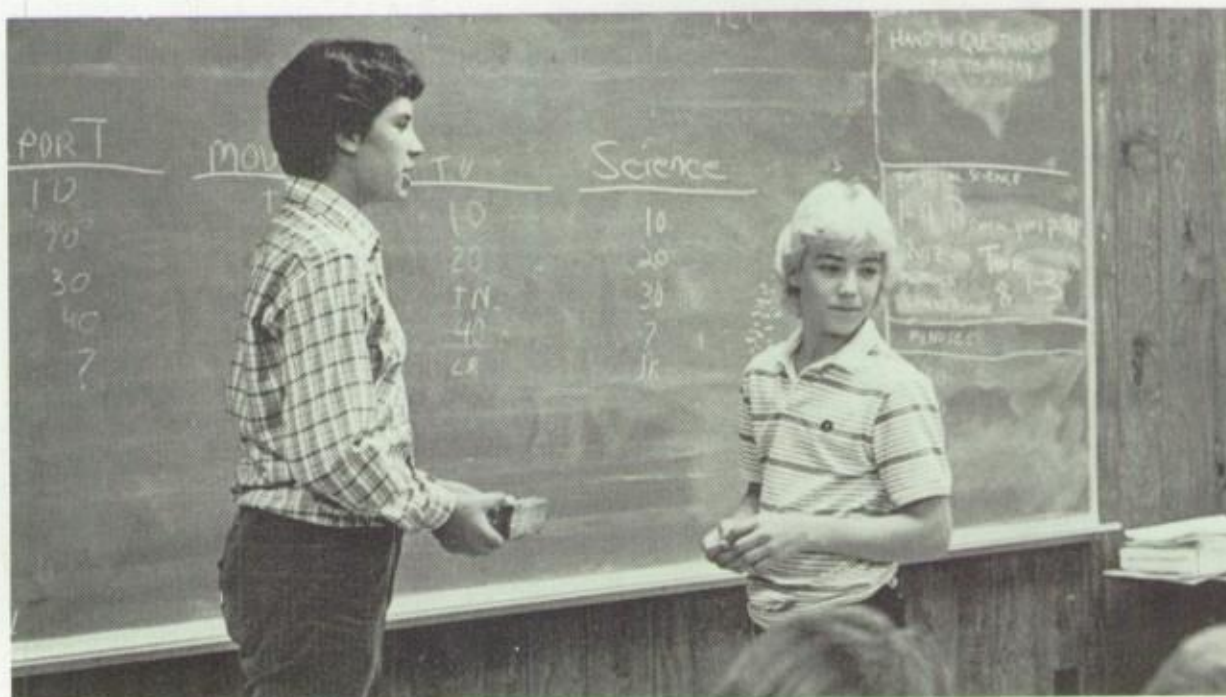

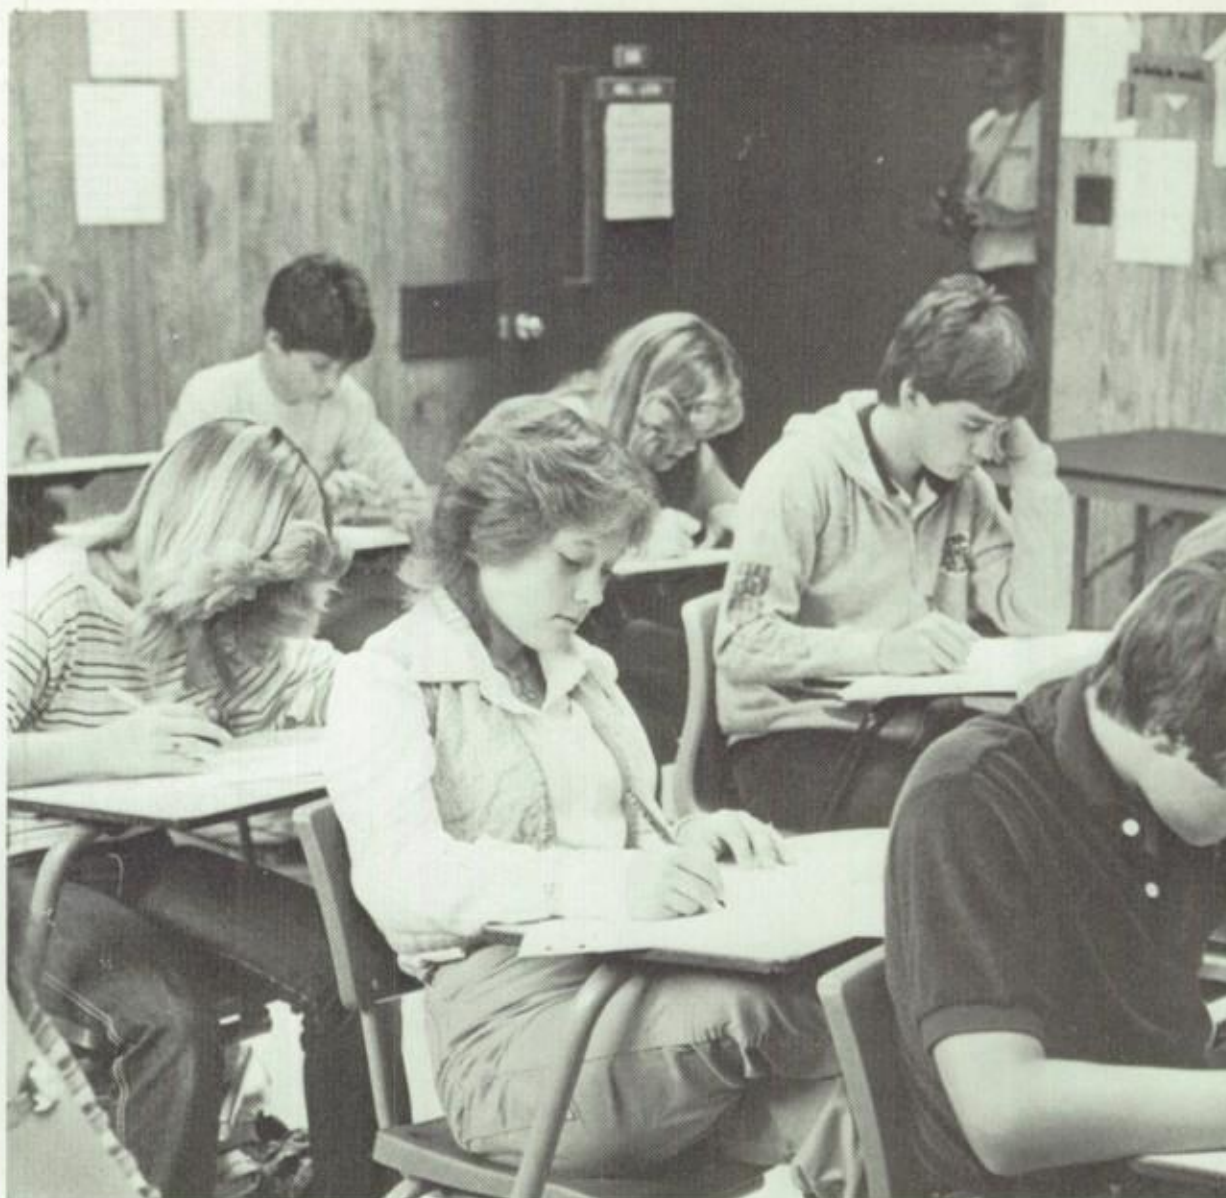

Mrs. Harrison teaches Computer Science to Seniors Blake Wingfield, Eddie Iverson, Robin Preattle, Mark Webb, Jackie Styron, Patty Staton, Scott Bailey, Robbie Bingham, and David Fekete.

In the area of fine arts, Academy Awards are given to those with outstanding performances. Likewise, awards are given to students in high school with outstanding achievements in academics. The Oscar to superior actors is like an A to a brilliant high school student. Recipients of the awards, be it the Oscar or an award of academic achievement, treasure the reward for a job well done from a true academic challenge.

Freshmen Bryan Nobles and Jimmy King play jeopardy while in Physical Science class. They keep score so the students can see who is ahead in the game.

English easier said than done

The English teachers fought hard to save the faltering speech of Ryan's students; however, the problem is nationwide. Proper grammatical structure is almost a foreign language to most people.

Young people are using so much slang that they are losing the art and beauty of correct speech. Our language is a wonderful one, with many creative and extravagant words. It is also one of the most difficult languages used in the world today.

English is a very wide field containing poetry, drama, and fiction. All these revolve around syntax, grammar, and form. They make up the essence of expression. In English studies a variety of selections are used to accomplish the goal of clear, concise expression.

Andy Powell, Jim Jenkins, Angela Davenport and Michelle Brien listen closely to Mrs. Emmett during English 9.

Education

Bryan White
Grade 9

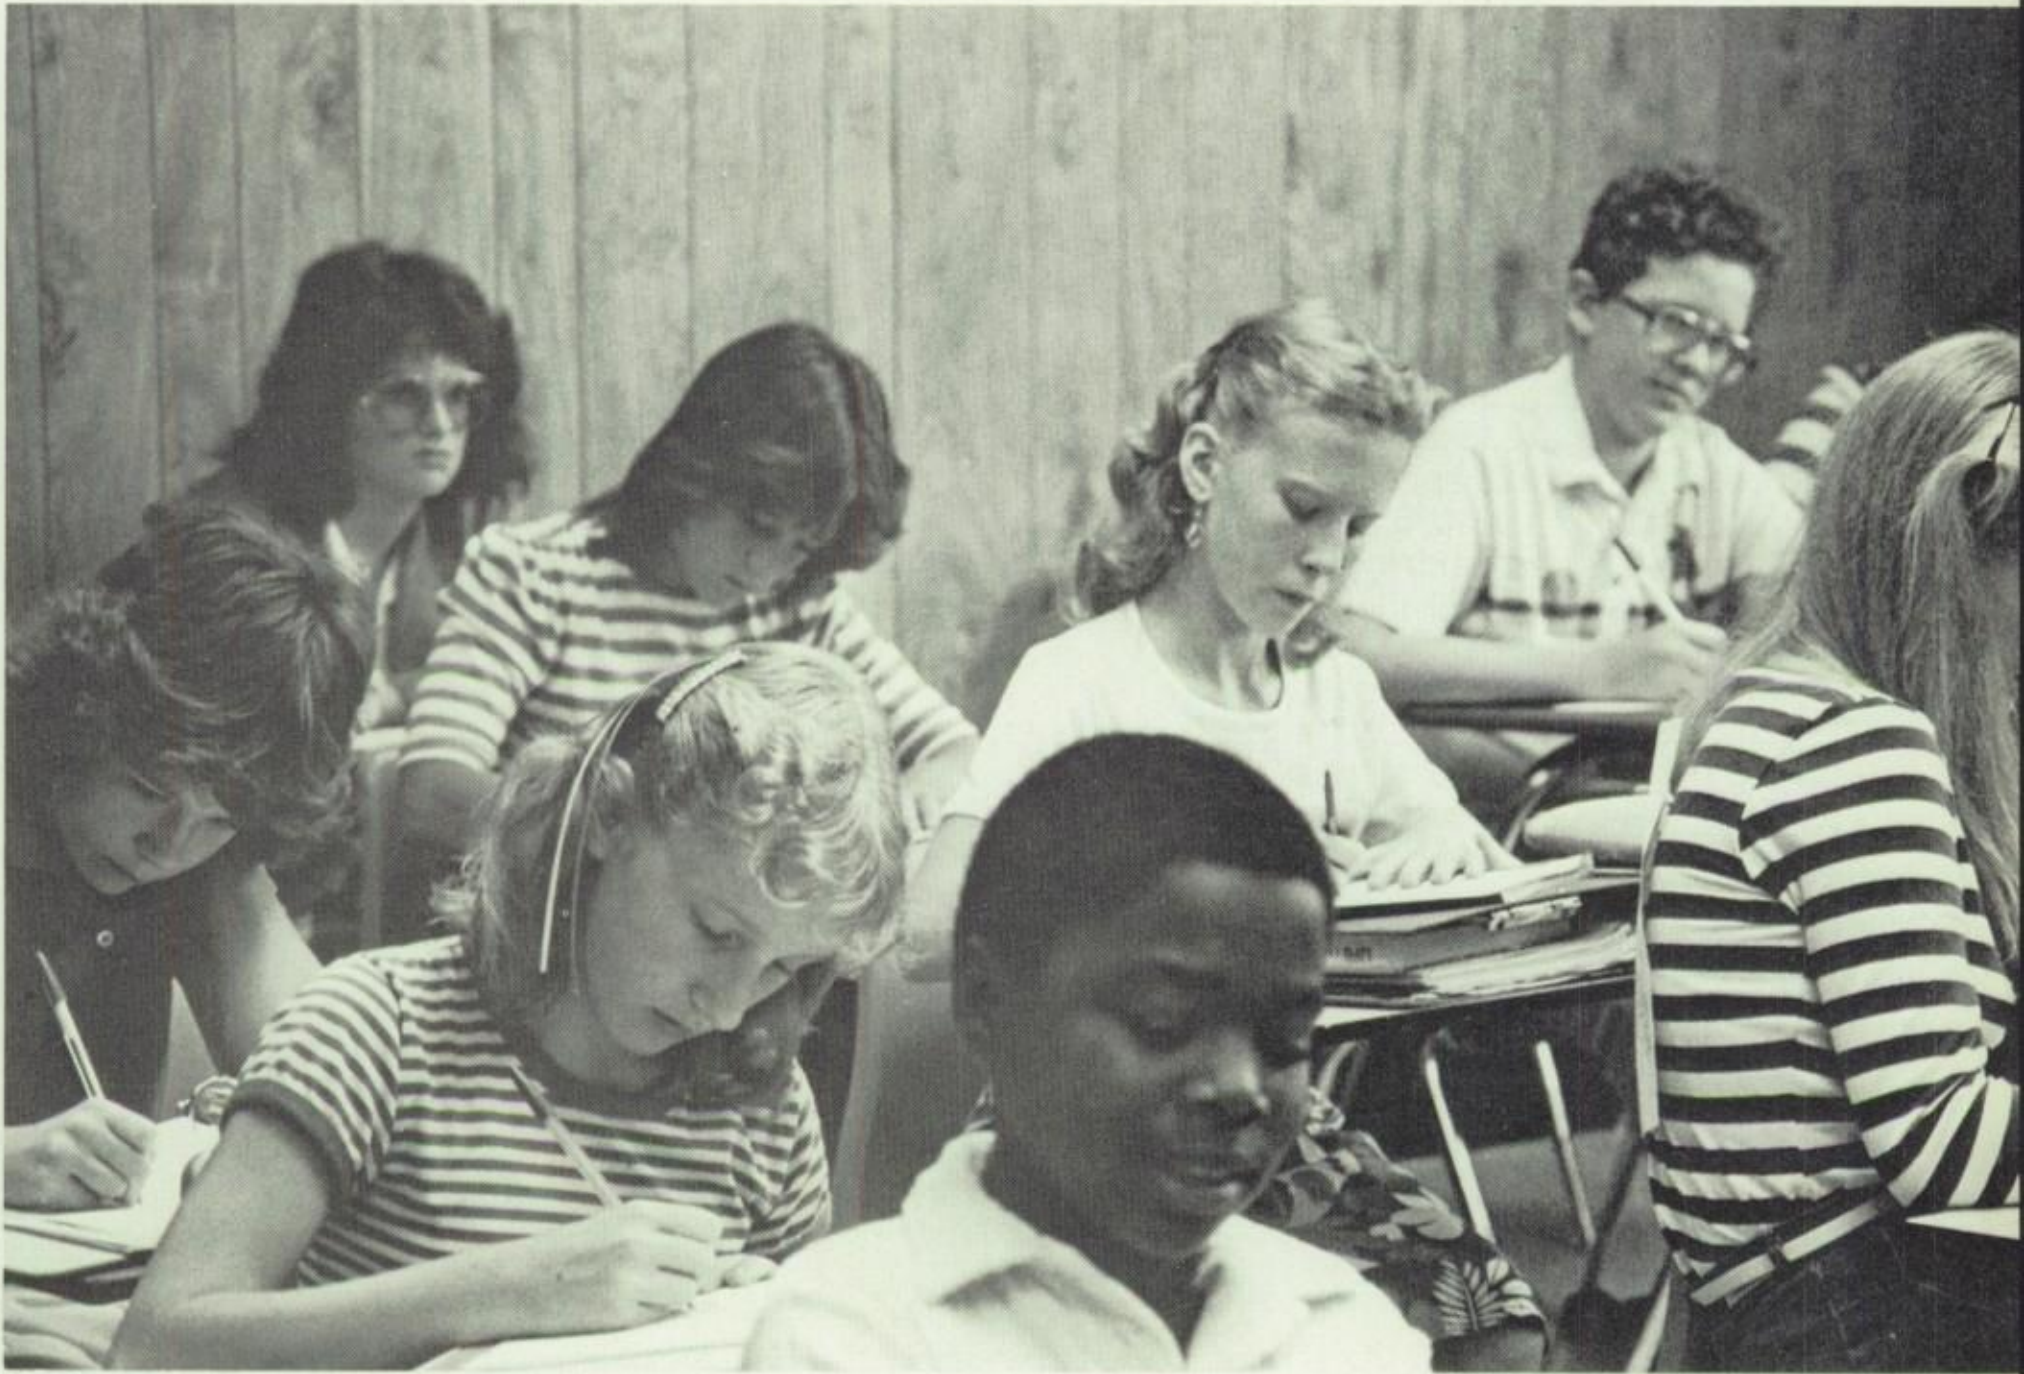

The key of life is education.
Besides classes, we acknowledge
Education includes patience,
Companionship, and awareness of Each other.

The lock of education is
A closed mind which we open
With our knowledge, our True skill's, and labor.

The open lock is our Way into the future,
The way we will be,
Therefore, the key of life
Is education.

Stacy Meinhardt, Jenny Nelms, Carol Wentz, Jerry Watson, James Hilderbrand, Darlene Reynolds, and Rickey Fulk study for a test during Ms. Bowles' English II class. They covered a wide range of English literature.

Shawn Henley, Beth Curl, Charles McCluney, Susan Whitehurst, Courtney Herter, Nancy Gossett, Tricia Tarkington, and Andy Myers keep busy taking notes during English 8.

Mrs. Richardson keeps her English 7 class spellbound by reading popular short stories on sports. The seventh grade class is also busy with literature, poetry, and writing.

Ricky Mohr, Deanna Cook, Mike Driskill, Lisa Carpenter, Terry Peele, Sam Sandler, and Trish Bouyear study notes and work on homework the last ten minutes of Ms. Bowles' English 10 class.

Language study challenges students

Language class is not all work

Foreign language study challenges advanced students as well as the beginners. To help understand the culture and to gain knowledge of language the study of French or Spanish helps everyone to get around in the world today.

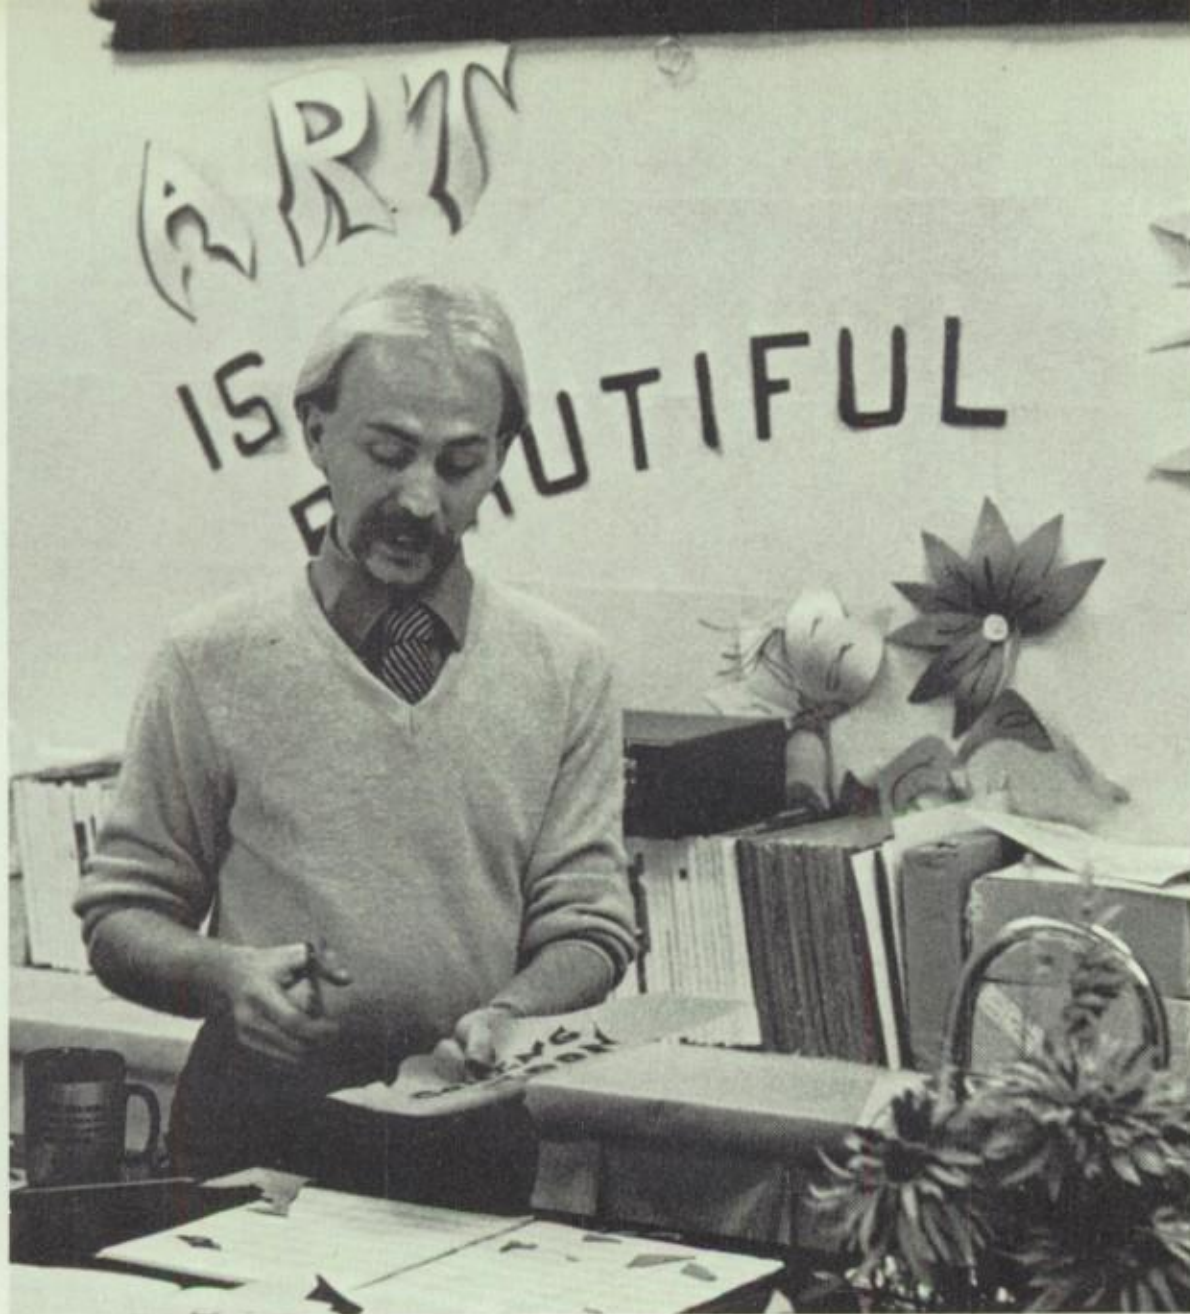

Foreign language study is not all work since some days students get to enjoy foods from the country they are studying. The classes started with simple greetings, numbers, and months before going on to difficult tasks in verb conjugations.

Students planned trips for spring break to visit countries to use the language skills and appreciate the things learned in class.

Kay McCoy, Arleen Myers, Cheryl Miller, Scott Troxel, Tracie Clothier, Terri Gilliam, Glynnis Tribble, and Michelle Hobbs study notes at the end of Spanish class.

French class members Amy Harrell, Tracy Murray, Wendy Karriger, and Wayne Garrett missed Mrs. Roberts when she moved out of the area early in the year.

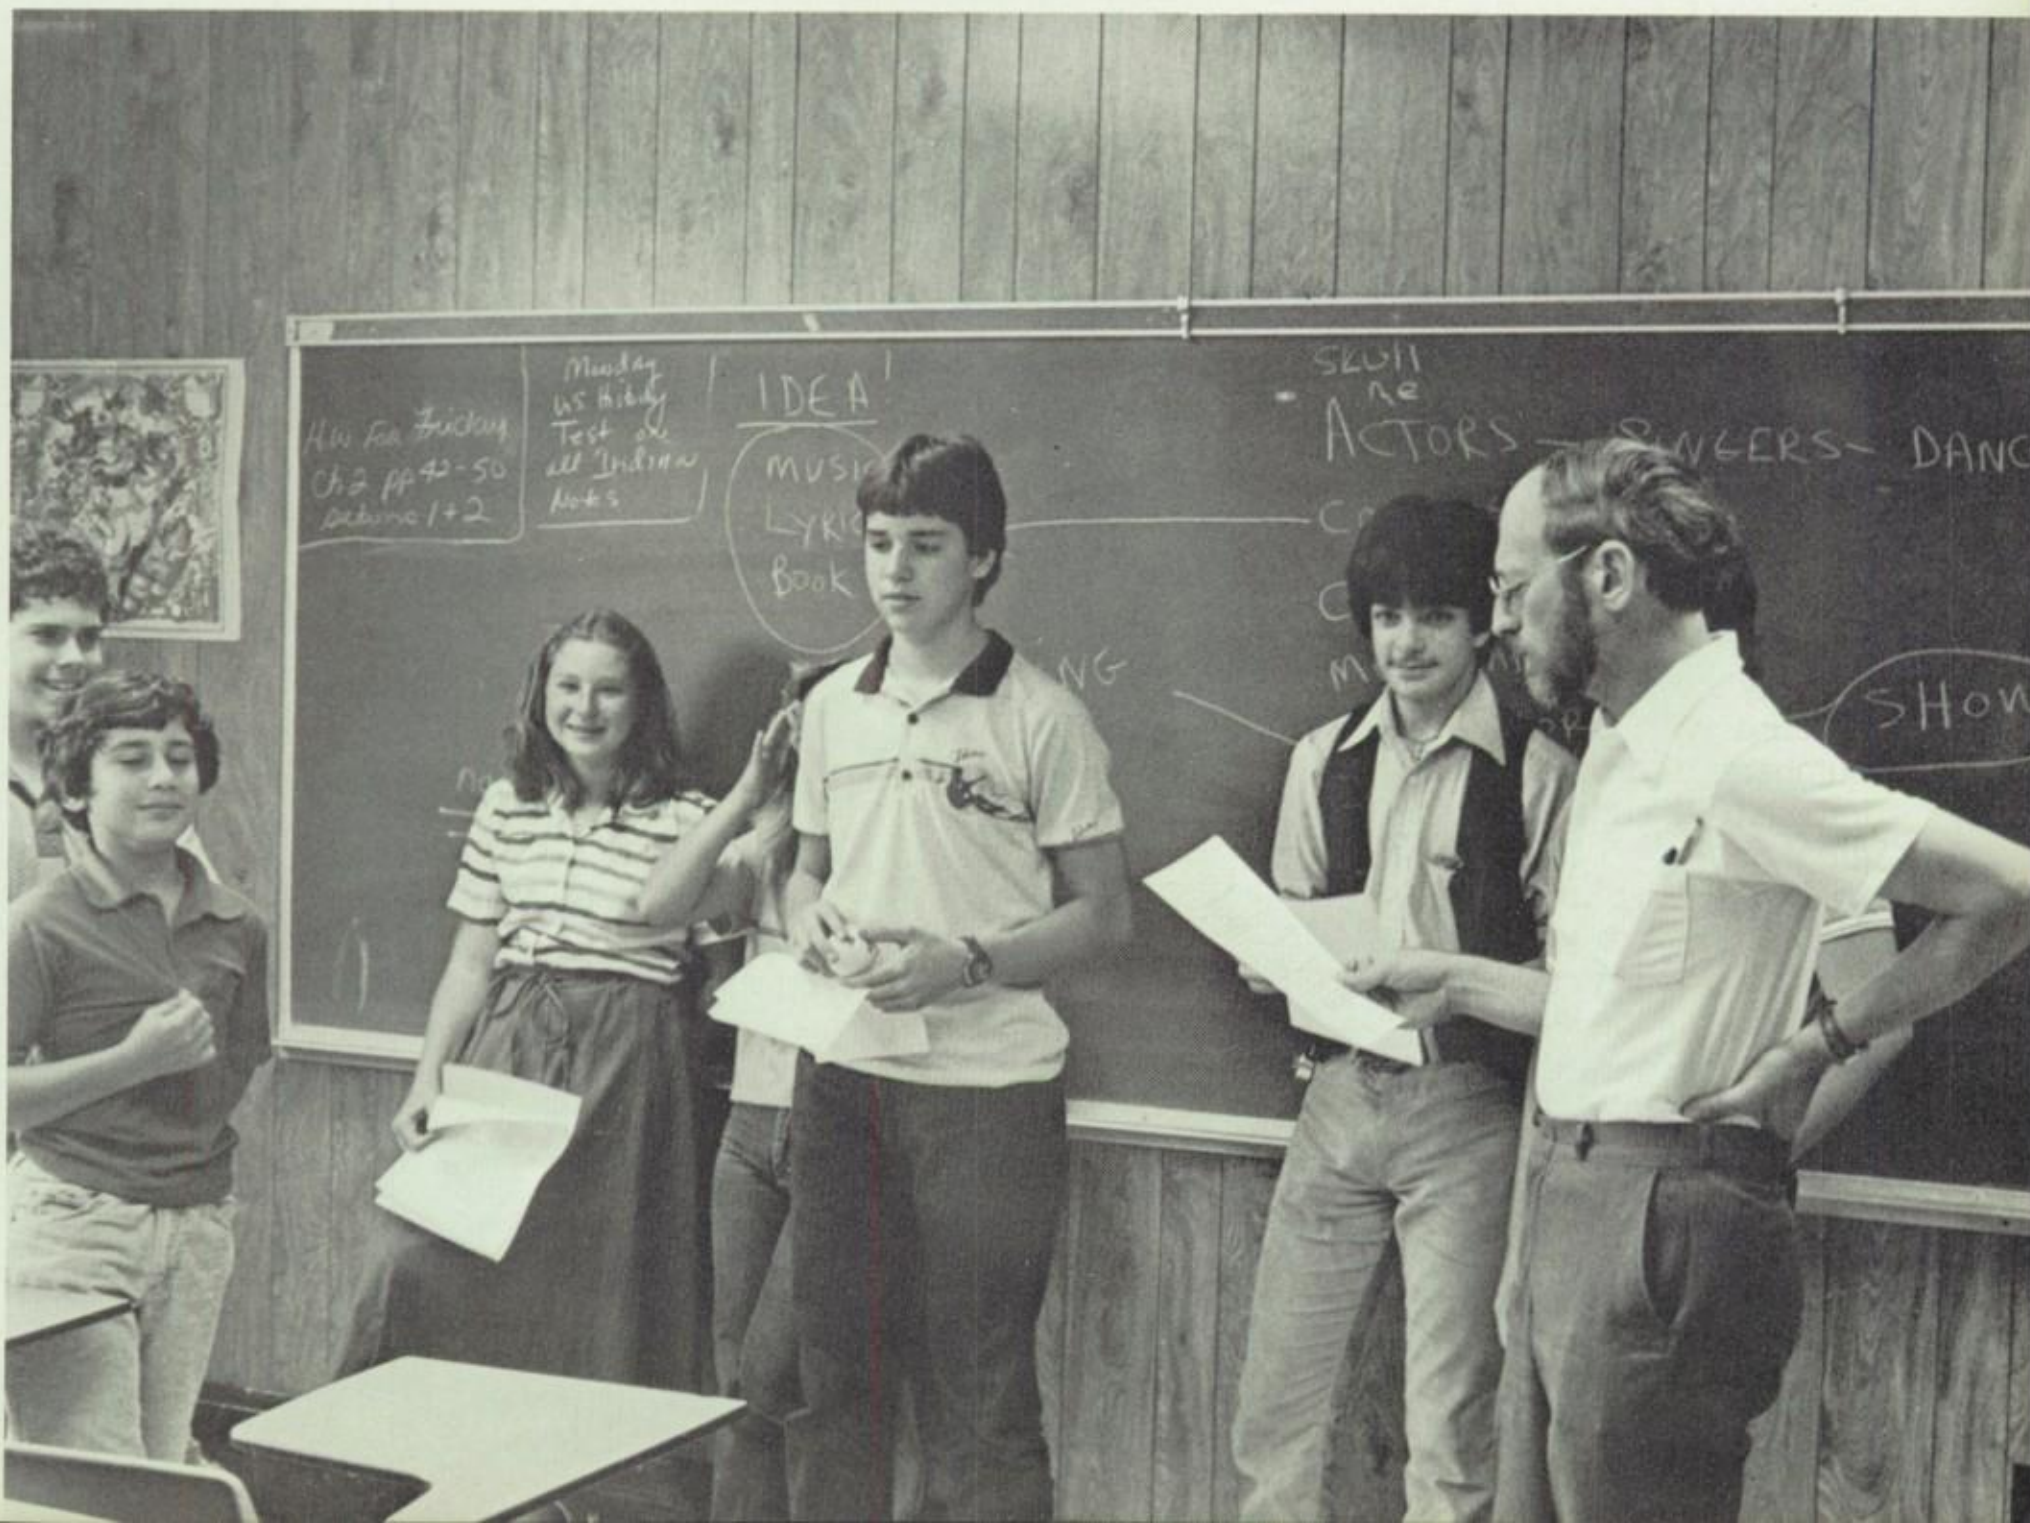

Fine arts enjoyed

Music is a way to express feelings and thoughts. In the lower school program, every week the class learned a new song, ranging from contemporary to folk. Mr. Warshaw brought new ideas to the department. Under his direction a school musical was planned.

The regularly scheduled art class provided an opportunity to learn simple drawing skills, and it supplied art projects for display within the school.

Mr. Bivens teaches art at the lower school. He can use any materials to create beautiful art projects which displayed throughout the school. Each class learns the skills.

Mr. Warshaw is teaching his music class the many aspects of a production. Each person demonstrates an effect that can be used. The members who participated include Vance Kypros, Larry Zeno, Lisa Smith, Jay Armstrong, and William Tull.

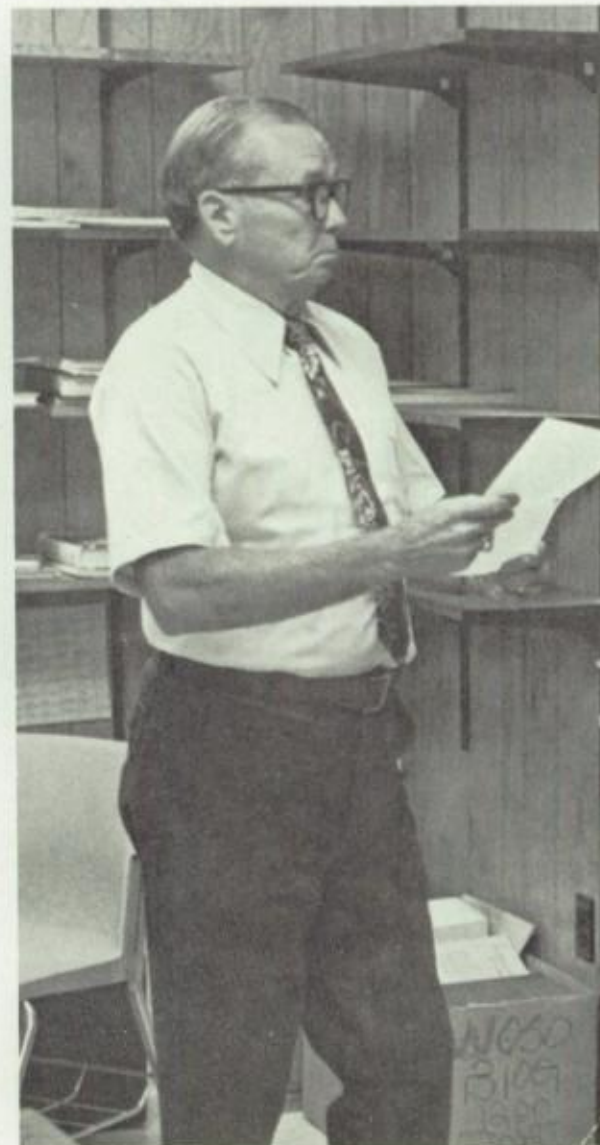

Math makes the change in one's life

Number lines, quadratic equations, functions, integers, and square roots are only a small part of mathematics. Math itself is basically a science consisting of combinations of principles and logic resulting in a relative equation. Math is part of every day life. Certain activities we take for granted such as making change, or balancing a checkbook, or even preparing a tax form would not be possible without math. Trigonometry can be very useful. One instance would be when measuring a building for altitude or width. The concept can also be applied to one's own home for decorative improvements. Math is extremely important in our careers such as business, drafting, or engineering. Math will always be an essential part of our lives.

Mrs. Harrison passes back Algebra II tests to Senior Lee Stephens and Juniors Lori Singleton, Paul Thomas, and Scott Summerlin. Mrs. Harrison also teaches computer science.

Mrs. White teaches her ninth graders to solve algebraic equations in her first bell class Algebra I part 1. Mrs. White also teaches pre-Algebra and Math 7.

Doctor Spencer teaches Advanced Math and Calculus. This is his first year teaching at Ryan. His students find their classes challenging and sometimes difficult.

Science promotes knowledge of our environment

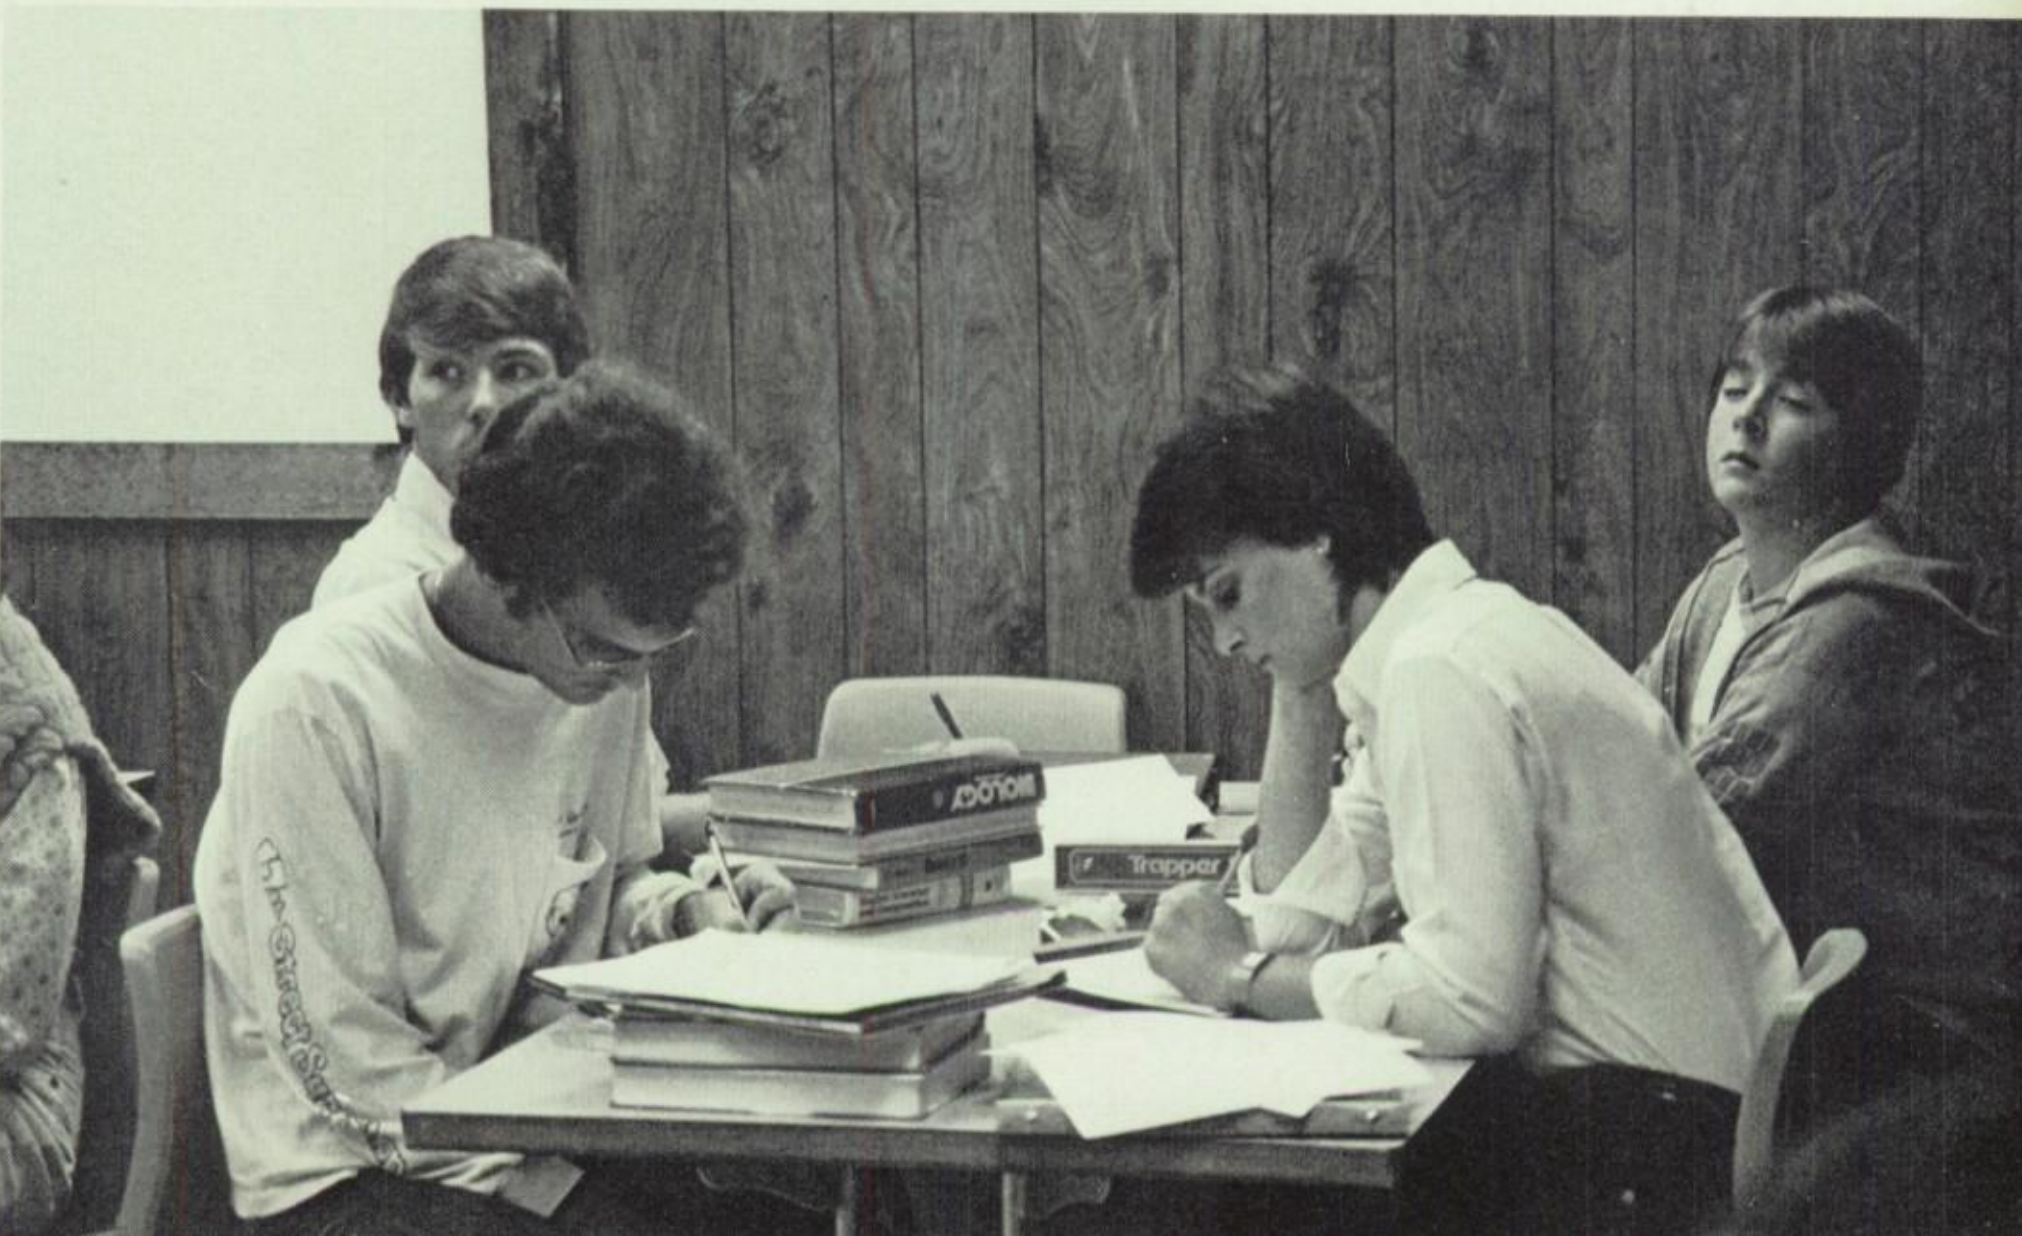

Mrs. LaBore enjoys science class with seventh graders Kim Dillard, Nick DeOliveira, Jerry Lockhart, David Thomas, John Shapley, and Carla Gregory.

Through science man can explore new avenues of life and have the freedom of invention. Science enables us to seek knowledge of our environment; thereby it allows us to view nature as a participant instead of an observer. Science itself encompasses chemistry, biology, physics, and geology. All of these are sciences and further involve man with his surroundings.

Todd Owens, Lisa Remaklus, Christy Bess, Bryan Windley, and Cindy Holman find something to smile about in science class.

Sophomores Weldon Whitehurst, Terri Gilliam, Scott Troxel, and Dwayne Thierjung take notes in biology class.

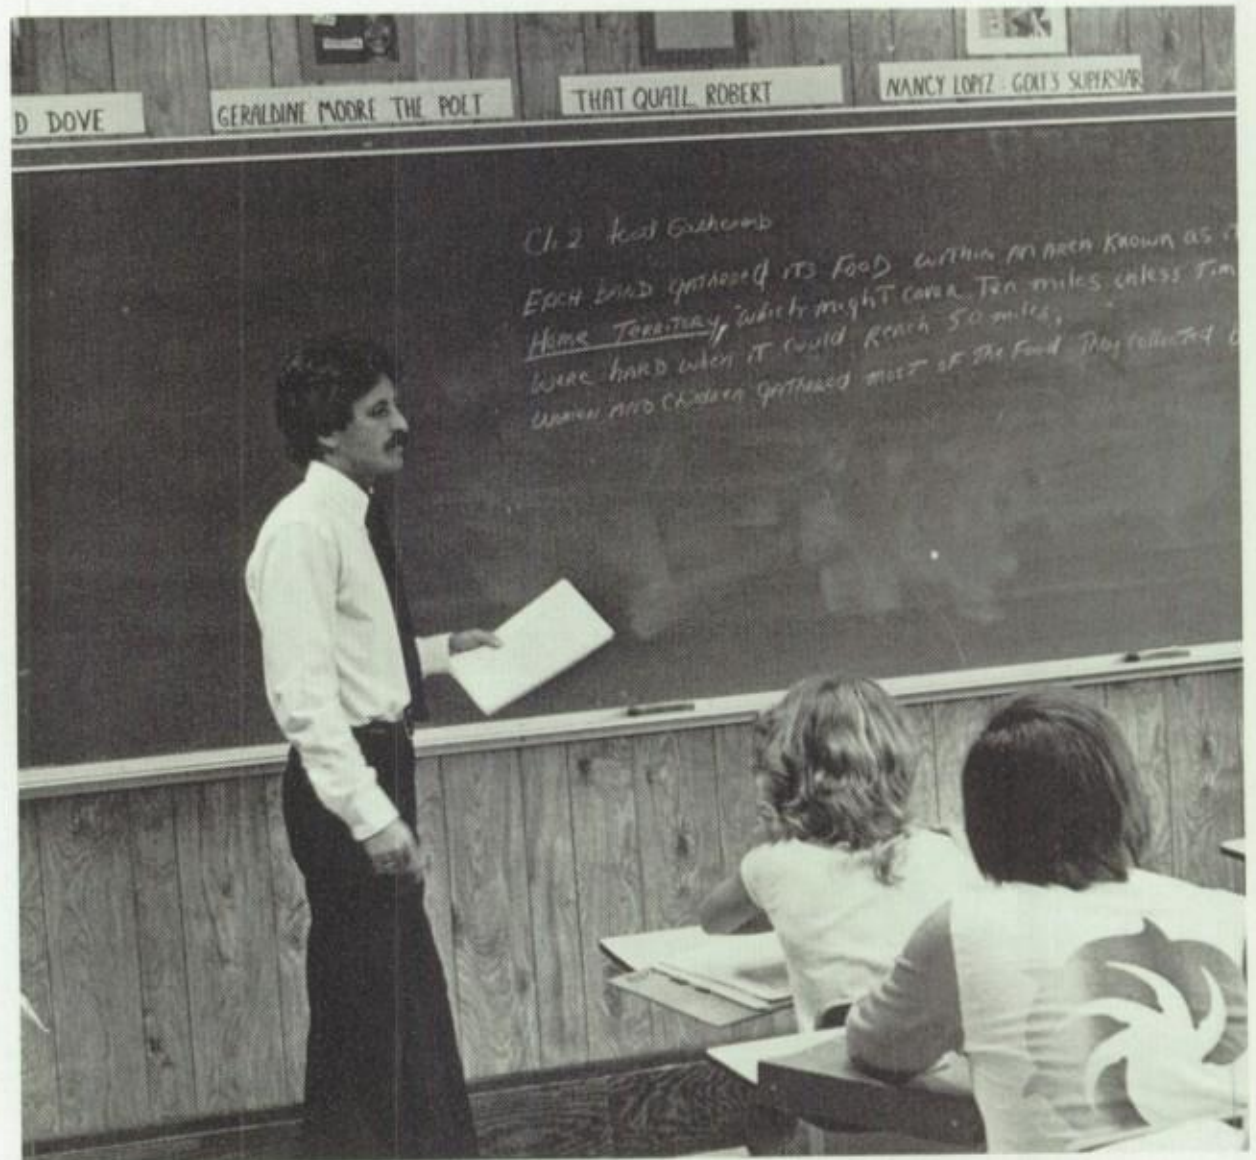

Social Studies moves the world

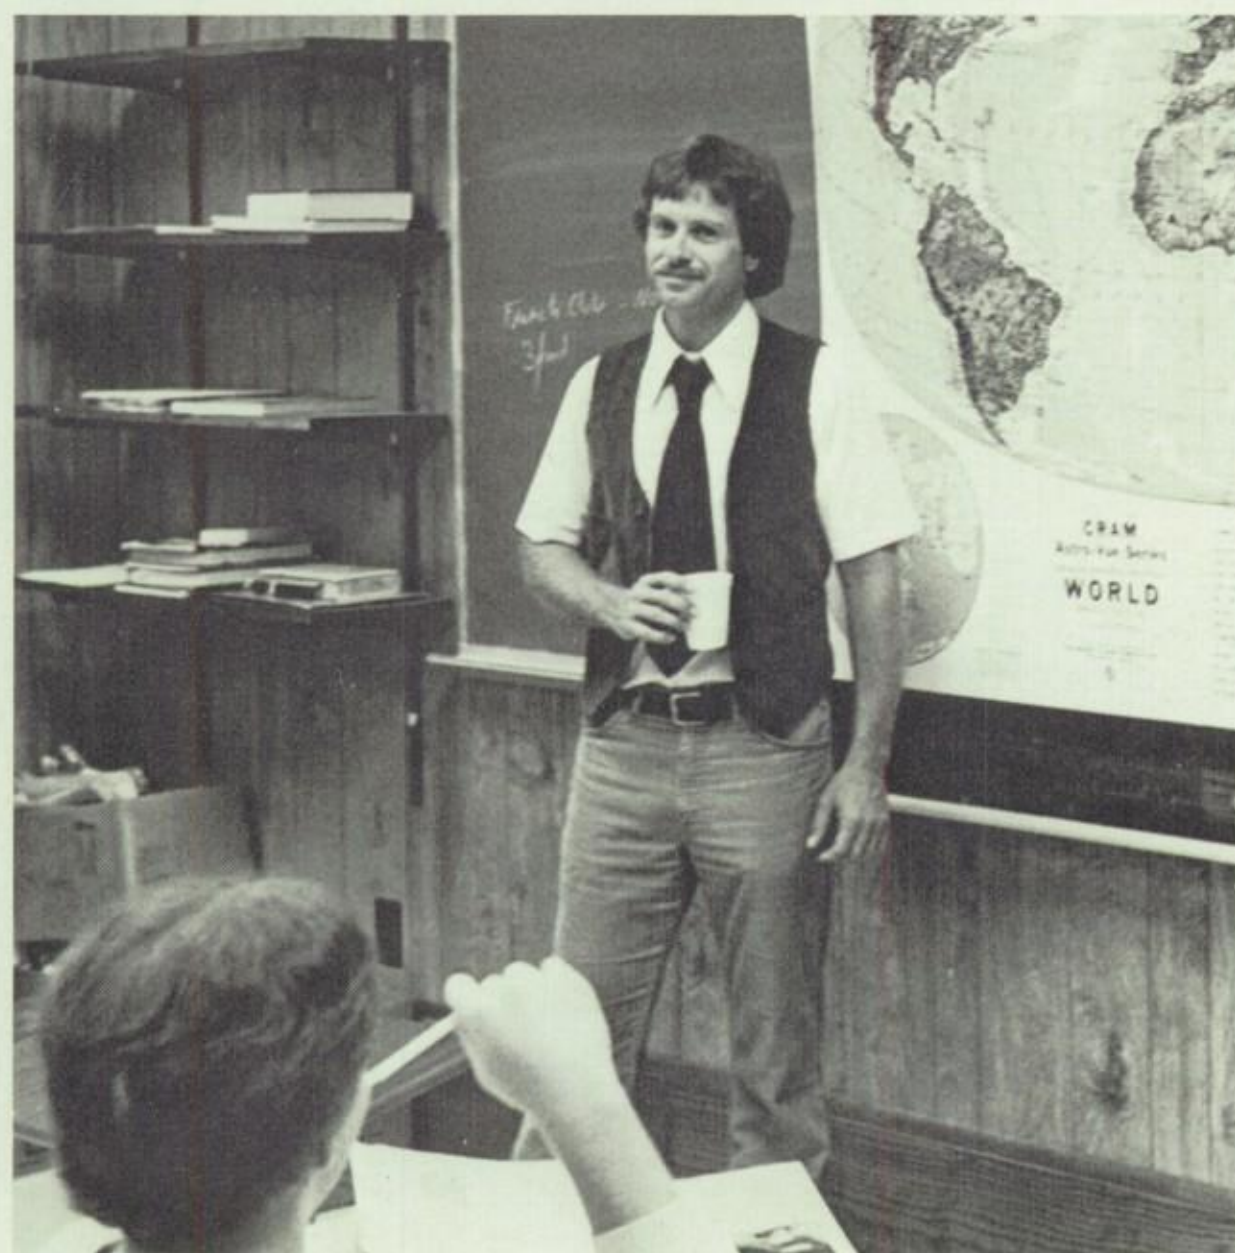

Travel agencies usually charge fees for information. Ryan has its own agency in Room 108 with free information. The social studies "travel agency" is a passport to foreign lands.

As the students travel throughout many foreign countries, they, in an indirect sense, socialize with inhabitants of those countries. For a few minutes students can feel as if they are actually a part of that country's culture by learning about its form of government, its customs, and its way of speaking. In social studies classes Peter Casey said, "We are getting the news of beliefs of the world."

Mr. Taylor holds the attention of his eighth grade class in history.

Cyndi Hludzinski, Blake Wingfield, Robin Preattle, Gayle Barrow, Paula Casto, Wendy Kariger, Patty Lott, Lee Stephens, and Marie Ambrose pay close attention to Mr. Murphy.

Jenny Nelms, Carol Wentz, Sheryl Carlile, Stacy Meinhardt, Eddie Derby, Peter Casey, Richard McBride, and Mitch Weatherford consider the lesson during history class.

Social Studies includes the study of countries, cultures, and the total way of life of people around the world. Many students enjoy the study of the foods of the other people because it is an excuse to try some.

Mr. Ayres uses the map while explaining U.S. History. He also teaches A.P. History and an eighth-grade history class. He took the classes on several field trips.

Business and journalism develop skills

Sabine Puget, our French exchange student said, "Business is a strange world." Many students get a peek into that world by taking typing courses. Mrs. Nofplot did double duty by working as the administrative assistant and teaching the business courses. Her goal for her students was to prepare them to be efficient typists. The Typing I and Typing II students learned the proper forms of typing letters and manuscripts.

Journalism is not only writing but planning, coordinating, proofreading, meeting deadlines, and photographing. The staff of twenty-one students produced the newspaper and yearbook. Techniques of interviewing were stressed by all class members.

Ellen Waters, Ken Herrick, Marie Ambrose, Sabine Puget, Jim Fike, Joe Henderson, Peter Casey, Johnny Wong, Mark Pond, and Richard McBride take a test in journalism.

Candy Swider, Glen Tribble, John Gardner, Jason Lundquist, Dale Gregory, Charlene Gibson, Kay McCoy, Paul Thomas, Johnny Wong, Scott Sumerlin, and Jim Fike work with the class on timed writings.

Recess allows Stephanie Bass, Jessica Di-Giorgi, and Stacey Ballard a chance to unwind from the stresses of kindergarten.

Lower school builds mind and body

Lower School science is not just elementary stuff. Students are introduced to earth and physical sciences as Jason Radogna, Stephen Huntley, and Kelly Tansley study in Mrs. Roger's class.

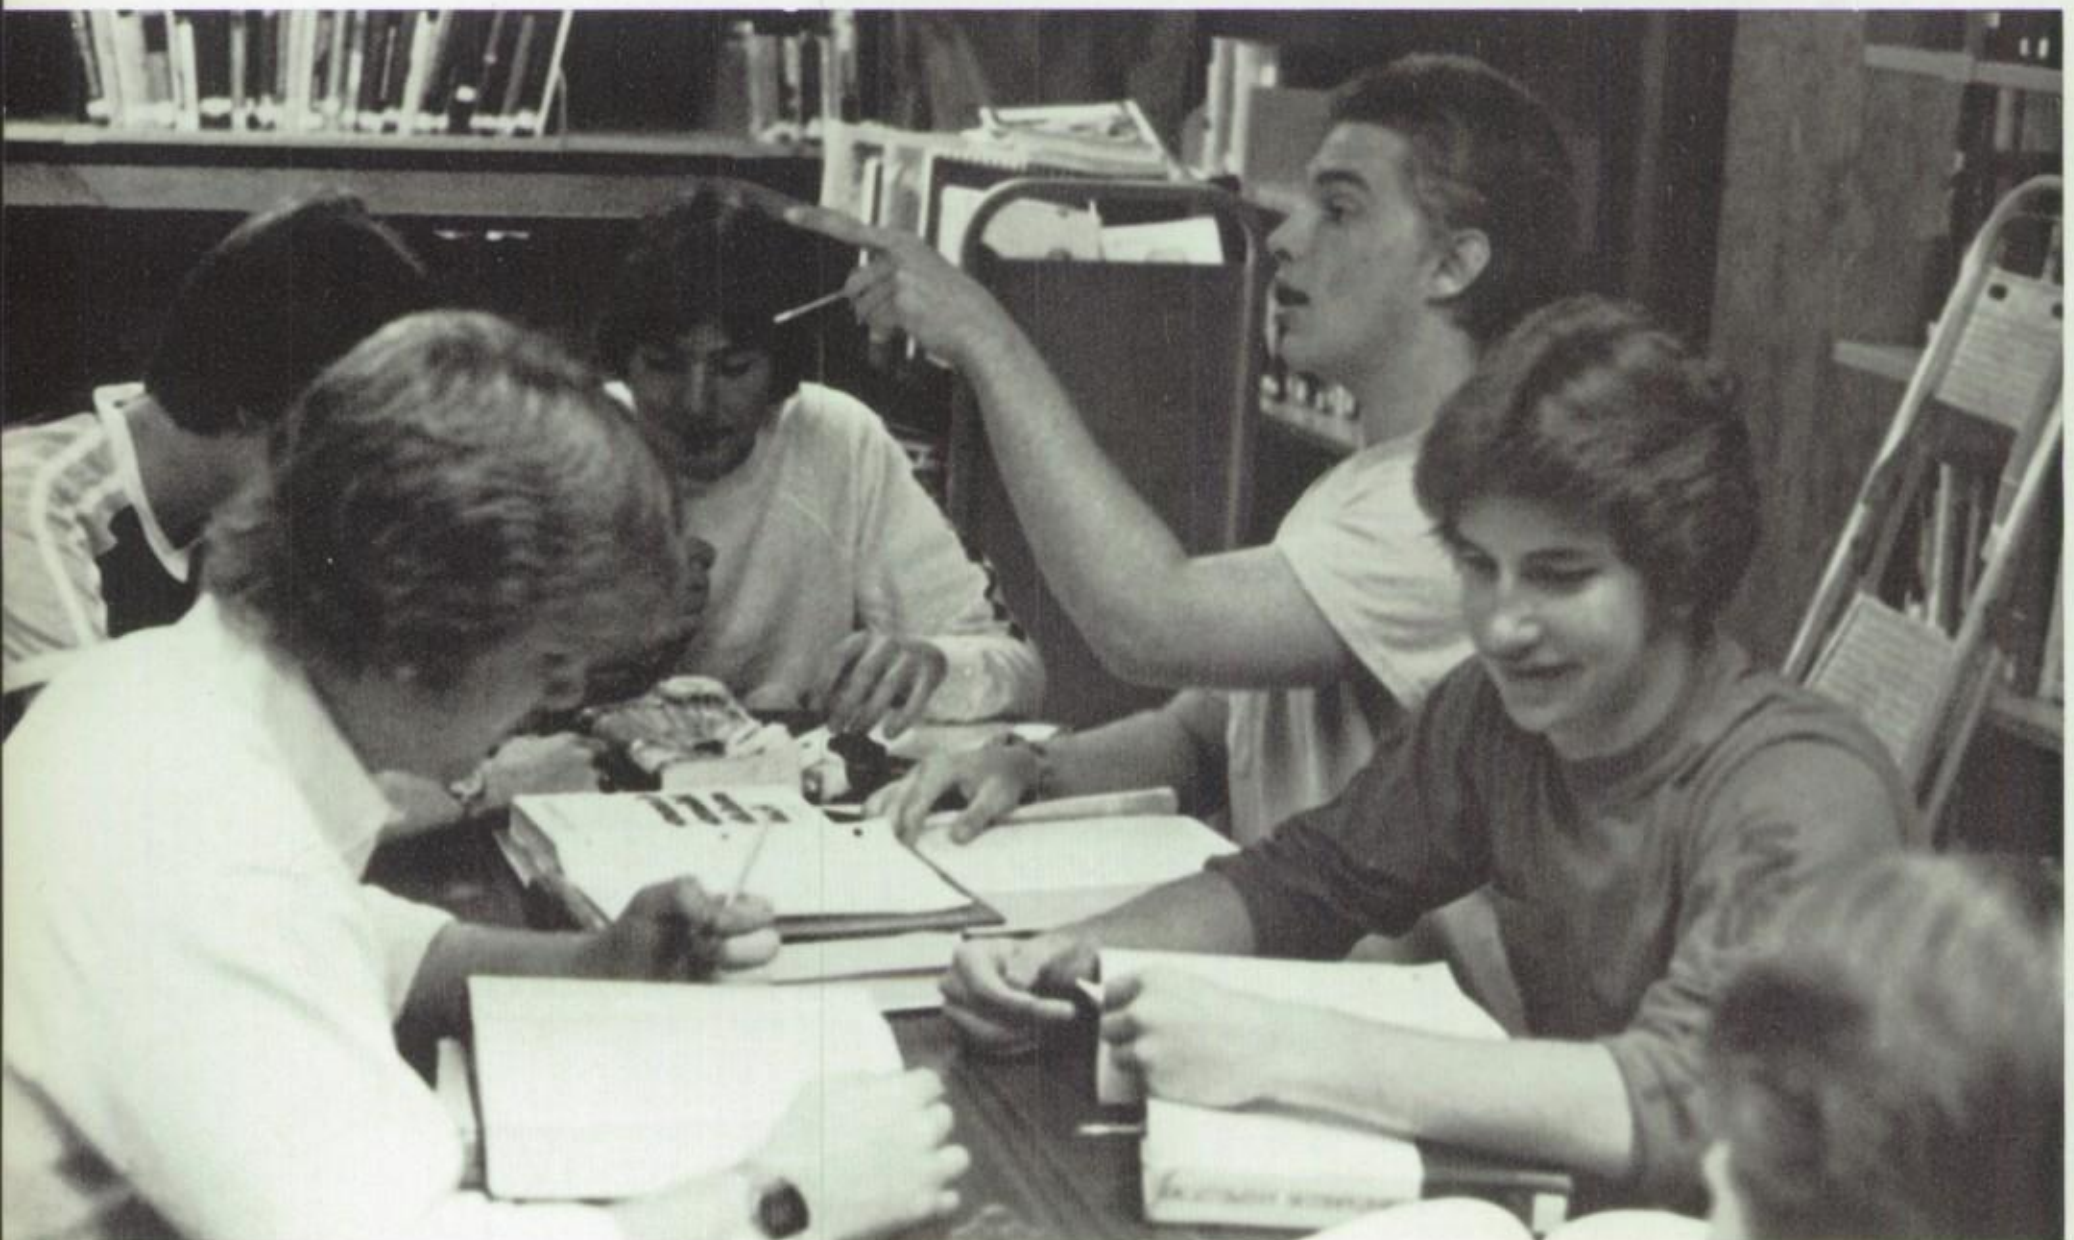

Wendy Ross, Sonny Barlow, Susan Harrison, and Shannon Goldman lunch while ever alert. Mrs. Rowley takes a much deserved break.

P.E. keeps you moving

Physical Education is an important part of a child's education. It teaches physical skills and tests athletic ability. Besides offering an opportunity to compete against others, it keeps the body healthy and fit. Although it can be fun and relaxing, safety must be taken seriously. The main point remains that physical education can aid a student's strength both physically and mentally. The Physical Education program allows all students to get involved in some way.

Eighth grade boys John Guess and Nick DeOliveira listen to Mrs. Hall while she explains basketball techniques.

Dennis Bess, Martin Pecil, Dexter Swanner, Norman Etheridge, Ricky Fulk and Ernie Davis work in the library getting references for their Courtship and Marriage class.

Dennis Salyers, Clinton Crick, James St. Clair, Paul Williams and Charles McCluney work out in eighth grade P. E. class.

Mrs. Shumate works in the library while planning work sheets for her next class. Senior Robbie Bingham studies sentence analysis in preparation for his AP English class.

Sports

Varsity team members Carol Wentz, Cheryl Miller, and Michelle Miller get ready to try and steal the ball as the opponent from Rock Academy throws the ball into play.

Francis Orner maneuvers the ball toward the goal while trying to keep his opponents of Rock Academy from stealing the ball from him.

Goalie Robbie Chegwidan kicks the ball downfield after preventing a goal. Team mate Tommy Lockhart looks on as he starts to make his way down the field.

As time goes on we seem to look into the past and realize the many differences between then and the advancements of today. Although there are numerous differences, one of the main sources of entertainment throughout the years has been sports. It is known that the Romans used their Colosseum for sports and the Greek Olympics. Ryan, a theater turned high school, uses its gym, which was an auditorium, for sports and tournaments. The Romans had pole vaulting; we have volleyball. They had disc-throwing; we have basketball. Both the Roman's Colosseum and Ryan's coliseum can be considered a place of delight — a paradise theatre.

Soccer team members Andrew Reutt, Mike Driskill, Brad Huffman, and Simon Houns-low watch as Francis Orner tries to keep his opponents from stealing the ball.

The soccer team, somewhat tired from the first half of the game, gathers around Coach Saied Kiani as he tries to promote spirit before the second half of the game.

Fast Break

A regular sports program is provided

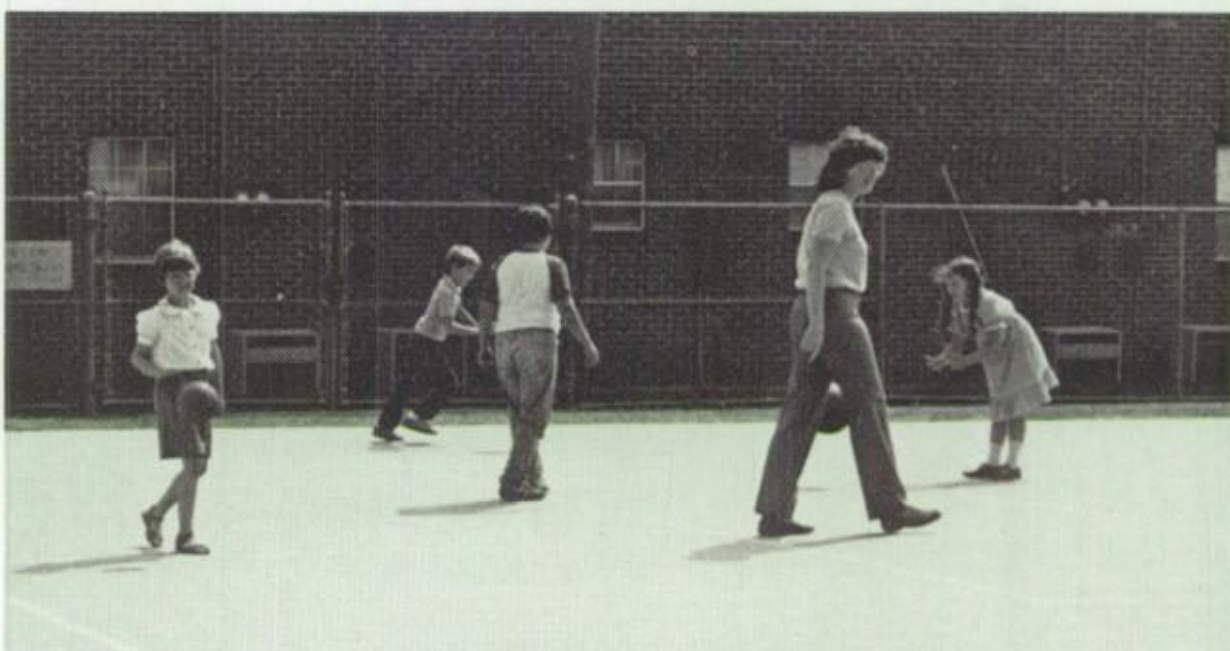

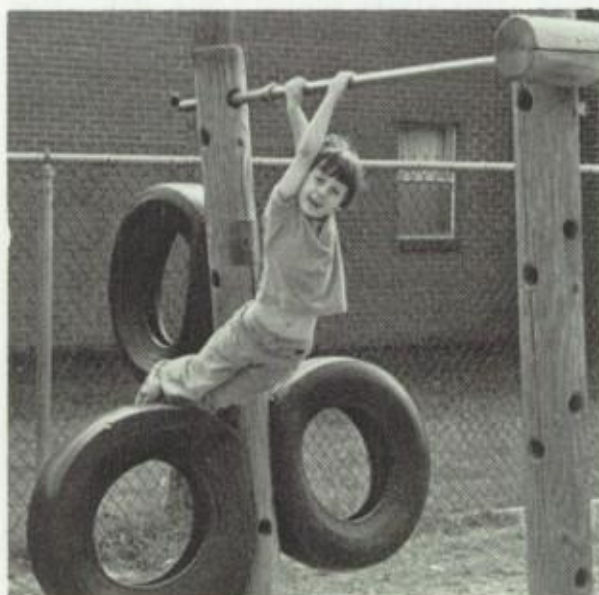

Mrs. Neubeck referees a volleyball match after school with Laura Nickles, Kevin Zirkle, Robyn Blackstone, Mark Wood, Bryan Wakefield, Ryan Hartman, and Aaron Smith while Charlene Stamper looks on.

Mrs. Neubeck supervises Angie Lawrence, Adam Robbins, Bruce Bussard and Anna Wilson as they play after school.

Lower school students enjoy the after school activities provided by Mrs. Neubeck and Miss Rickard. A regular program of guided sports instruction builds skills early to promote the development of motor skills needed for all sports programs used in the upper school.

Rebecca Omahen, Kelli Reid, Amber DeFrancis, and Christopher Coltrain gather around Miss Rickard for a game.

Michael Mottesheard enjoys the time spent climbing, swinging, and stretching out on the equipment provided.

Scott Bailey helps goalie Robbie Chegwiddden to protect the goal.

Soccer season was lead by the expertise of Head Coach Saied Kiani and executed by the skills of the returning lettermen and the abilities of new athletes to the Ryan lineup. Although playing with a three man front, Ryan displayed a wide variety of offensive styles and an aggressive defense that were both successful against conference and nonconference teams.

Slide tackles, scrapes, knee burns, endless sprinting, and an incredible sense of camaraderie were all aspects of the soccer season.

Girls' Basketball:

Varsity topples while

splits first place

Donna Guynn rejoices with the cheerleaders over their tie for the first place title.

The girls' basketball team consists of a varsity and a junior varsity squad. The varsity finished fifth in the conference as they played victim to injuries since Patty Lott had a broken knee and Carol Wentz had a twisted ankle. On the other hand, the junior varsity had only one loss, Cape Henry. The loss caused them to share the first place title with Cape Henry and no tie-breaking game was set.

Varsity Team: Brandy Nichols, Paulette Bryant, Patty Lott capt., Beth Gauthier capt., Lisa Schulz, Amy Creech, Michelle Dillow, mgr., Michelle Miller, Carol Wentz, Sheryl Carlile, Cheryl Miller, and Coach Shumate.

Cheryl Miller jumps up to make a foul shot for the Ryan varsity team.

Jr. Varsity: Aimee Howington, Donna Guynn, Amy Harrel, Rita Day, Beth Cannon, MaraLee Leiding, Becky Sukoff, Alice Howington, Lesa Pickering, Christine Gilbert, Lesha Norman, and Coach Bowles.

Cheryl Miller and Carol Wentz go up to capture an offensive rebound from Rock Academy.

Paulette Bryant and Patty Lott have looks of concern during the half time.

Good junior varsity makes great varsity

In the up and coming year the boys' varsity basketball team will benefit from the junior varsity basketball players.

Varsity team holds their own

Varsity basketball members Dennis Bess, Kenny Hershberger, Brad Huffman, and Blake Wingfield guard the court while playing defense.

Varsity team members Brad Huffman, playing guard; Jim Fike, playing forward; Scott Troxel, playing center; and Jerry Watson, playing forward; all guard the basket in the opening game against the Isle of Wight Chargers.

The boys' Varsity basketball team started out the season with a bang. Their first game was non-conference; they beat Tidewater Academy 67-65. They played Cape Henry which was a conference game; Cape Henry won 52-50 at Cape Henry.

Ryan's varsity basketball team at home did exceptionally well in the conference. They played Alliance, winning 75-41. They also played Rock to defeat them 56-47.

The boys' varsity basketball members were working with a new experienced coach, Mr. W. T. Bryant. The team gained experience and teamwork.

Cheerleaders demand

The cheerleaders began the season with a lot of school spirit. Cheerleaders help to promote spirit throughout the school with pep rallies and during the games.

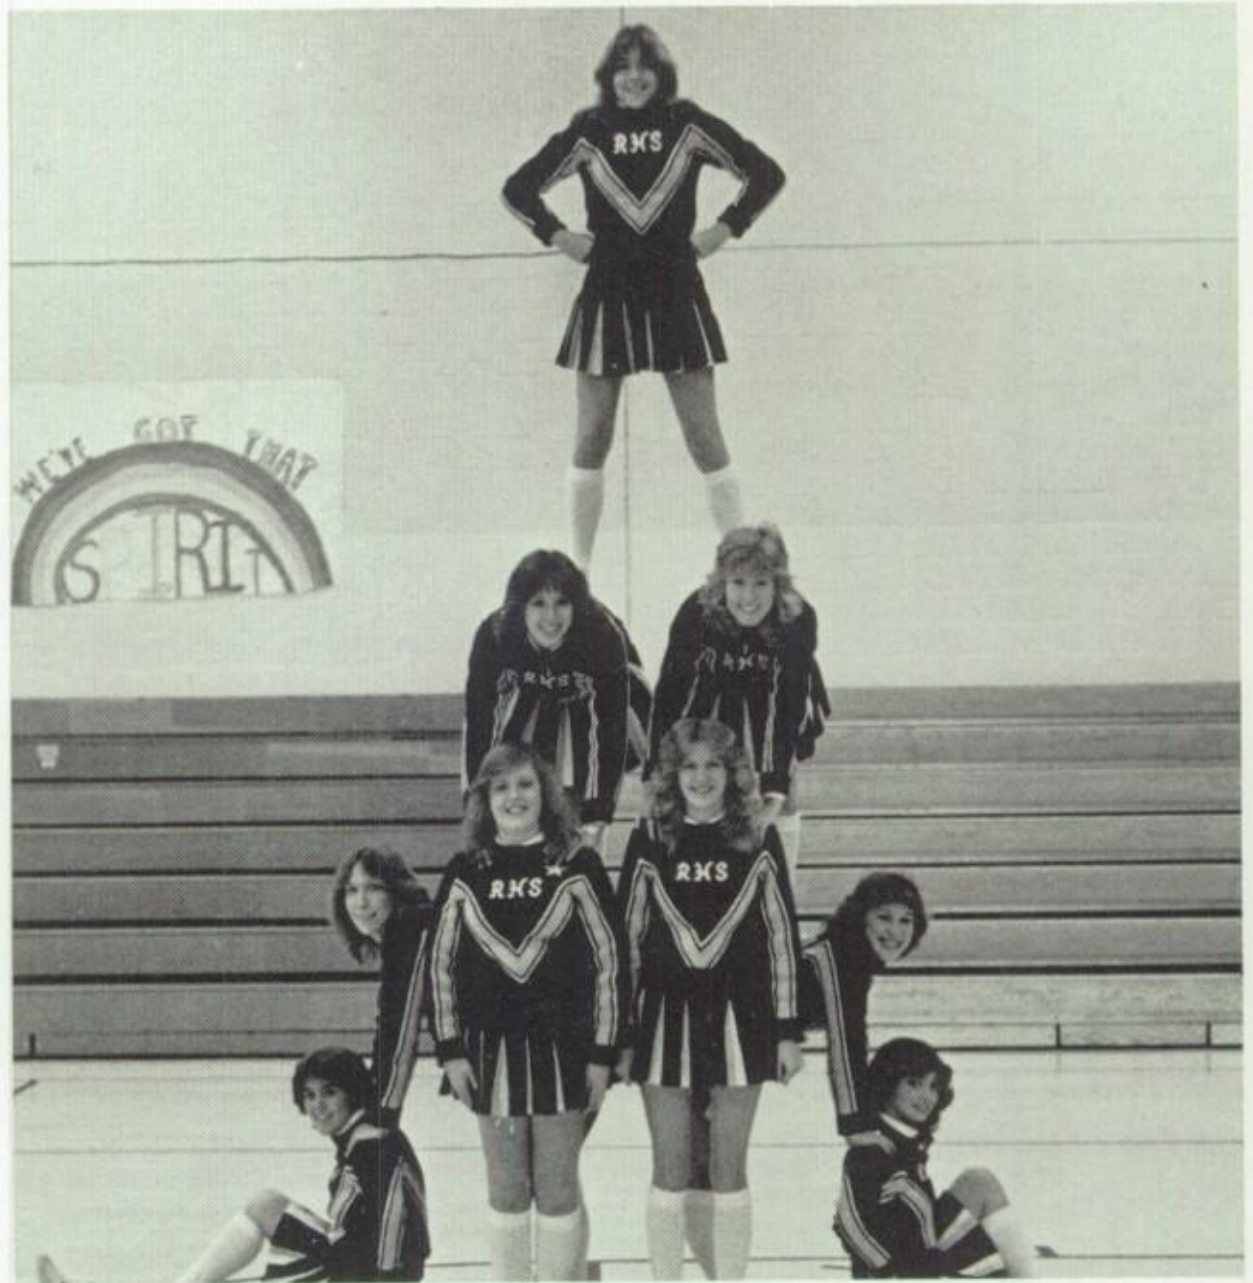

"We had a hard but exciting time during cheering camp preparing for the season," according to Ellen Waters.

Vickie Bastian added, "The enjoyment of being a cheerleader is shown even more when it comes time for games."

The squad consisted of Lori Wentworth, Melinda Bailey, Co-captains Ellen Bass and Vickie Bastian, Paulette Bryant, Kim Anderson, Suzy Friedman, Ellen Waters, and Amy Harrell.

spirit at games

The J.V. squad exemplified spirit and gained experience in leading the school. They also performed stunts, dance routines, and accepted many other responsibilities throughout the year including dances and fund raising activities. Junior varsity cheerleaders Christine Gilbert, Lisa Riposa, Brian Stanton, Tracy Stillman, Lisa Sanders, and Elaine Little do a stunt as they cheer for the team.

During a quarter at the J.V. basketball game cheerleaders Lisa Riposa, Lisa Sanders, Elaine Little, Brian Stanton, Christine Gilbert, and Tracy Stillman execute a fan for the crowd.

Cheerleaders show their spirit at games and at pep rallies. The group has worked hard all year: Lisa Riposa, Lisa Sanders, Brian Stanton, Christine Gilbert, Elaine Little, and Tracy Stillman.

Team serves, blocks, and spikes

Under the helpful hand of veteran Coach Vicky Miller, the team has obtained the best record in the history of Ryan. Coach Miller said, "I have coached every sport but hockey and lacrosse."

The team had many capable players willing to work together. The team was strong in serving, blocking, and spiking. They showed confidence in themselves, which is a strong trait for a team.

Volleyball team members work together. Michelle Miller blocks as Sherry Aplet, Melinda Bailey, and Carol Wentz wait to pick up the spike.

The junior varsity team: Terri Ward, Kim Dillard, Cheryl Miller, Glynis Tribble, Kim Holton, Lisa Pecil, Beth Gauthier, Vickie Bastian, Charlene Gibson, Amy Creech, and Coach Vicky Miller.

The volleyball team looked pleased after making a hard earned point from a long volley.

JJV gains experience

JJV girls' basketball team had a year of learning fundamentals, but had a lot of fun. Only two or three had any experience at all. There was much improvement as the season progressed.

JJV boys' basketball practiced the drills and shots needed to whip a new team into shape. Jumping Jay and Running Robby helped the team in their games.

JJV cheerleaders squad: madalyn martin, Kim Ford, Tena Pickering, Tricia Tarkington, Jill Lupton, Christy Whitehurst, Lynnette Treakle, Kathy Lewis, Vicki Doughty, and Donna Guynn.

We applauded as the curtain closed

At Paradise Theatre,
Yesterday, today,
Thinking of tomorrow.

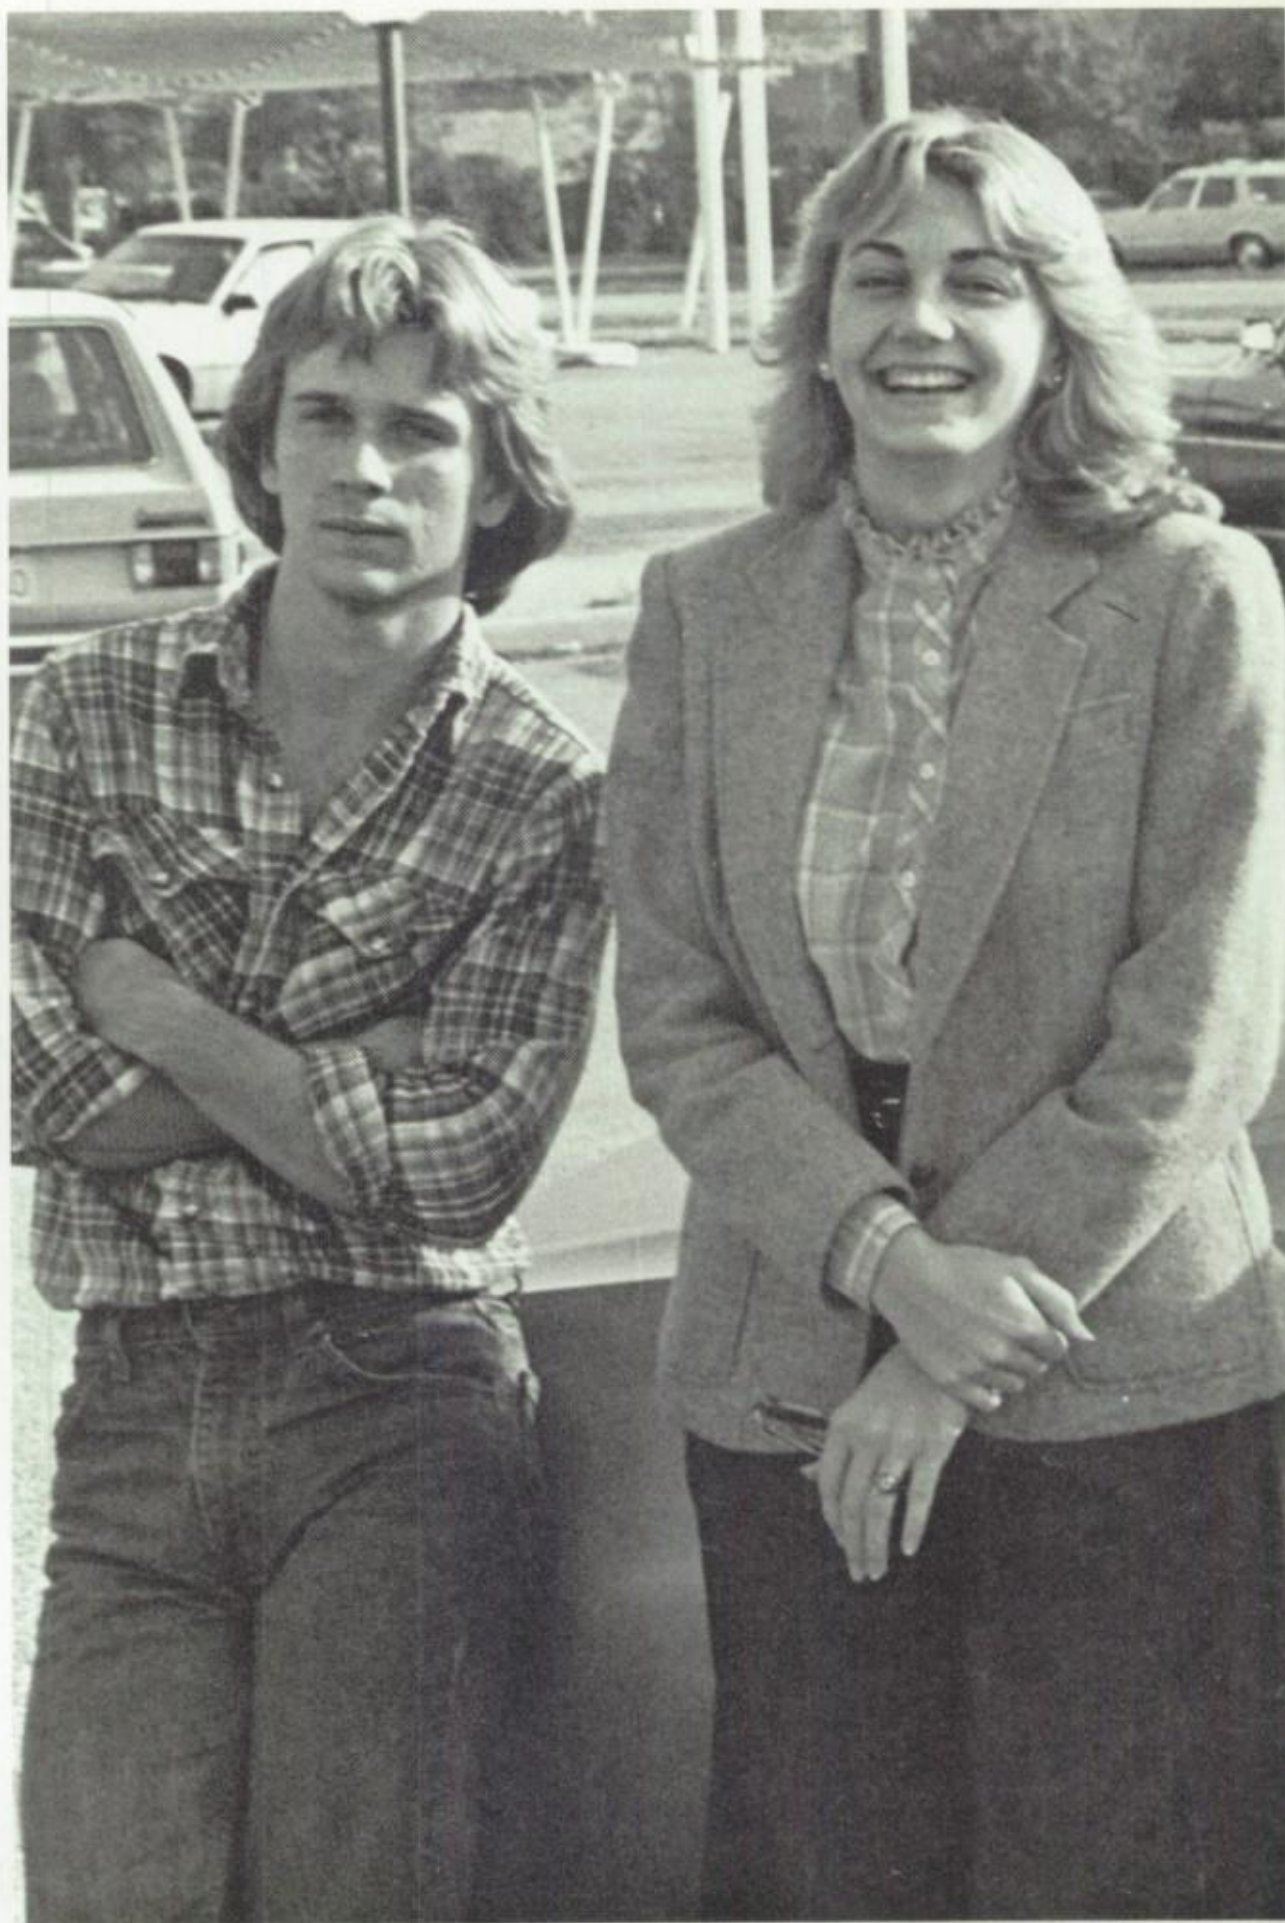

The Ryan Schools expanded to 850 students in grades kindergarten through twelve. Visits from alumni, cooperation from parents, and enthusiasm from students made memories for each person.

Fads of the year included tuxedos for women, punk styles, home computers, and Valley Girl speech. The fads were like awesome for shur.

Events that touched our lives included the news of the death of Bear Bryant in Birmingham, Alabama. Football fans mourned the loss. The last production of the program MASH also ended a familiar time in TV viewing.

Memories from Ryan show the wise use of an old theatre to be a stage for academic excellence in preparation for tomorrow.

Scott Bailey and Terrie Schmitt enjoy some of the free time during lunch. The scene will change when like many of their classmates they enter the college world.

Students Kim Kirby, Terri Hensley, and Shawn McCune look at the ninth grade projects illustrating a scene from a book.

Love
a good friend

SHIRN

Go Rick or Fuzzy -

Whatever the hell you want me to call you.

Personally Rick, Fuzzy I think our a weird BOY! I'm just kidding, HA! HA! (●!#@?) HA! HA! Well old boy I guess it's pretty obvious that you like Rebeckah, "Go for it"? You are a good friend and I hope to see you at the upper school, Do you think you can come to my home this weekend? In case you forgot my phone number, as you usually do its 489-8483. If you call ask for the "The Great George Woodhouse"! Good luck in the future. Stay cool and don't become a goody-goodie. Keep down the bad grades and I'll see you in the future.

a Good Friend

The Great George W
